British Battle Egyptians; Boy, Three, Saves Family When Oil Stove Explodes

Anglo-Egyptian Status Is Worst Since Cancellation of Treaty

Cairo, Egypt, Jan. 25 (AP)—British troops with tank support battled Egyptian police for six hours in Ismailia today. British officials reported 42 Egyptian police and three British soldiers killed in the bloodiest fighting yet in the Suez Canal Zone.

The British counted 130 Egyptians and 13 British soldiers hurt in the battle, which the British initiated to disarm Egyptian auxiliary police. The British claimed the police were fighting them instead of keeping order.

Dugan was asleep in a bedroom off the kitchen where the stove exploded. Deputy Fire Chief James Brett, 42, and the youngster, sensing that something was wrong, went in and called to him.

Dugan notified Mrs. E. M. Lucas, who lives in the apartment above that occupied by the Dugans, and she telephoned the fire department at 10:05 a. m. Brett said.

Dugan Has Burn

Dugan suffered a slight burn on the left foot, the deputy chief said, when he attempted to quench the flames in the room, and the youngster, apparently fascinated by the excitement, remained in the room until he was taken out by Dugan and Charlotte Humphrey, his wife.

Brett described the stove as an "open flame" type, and said flames spread after its explosion to parts of the walls and ceiling and damaged clothing and furniture in the apartment, as well as causing heavy smoke in the building.

Pieces of furniture which had caught fire were taken outside and the flames were quenched with pails of water.

Ulster Hose Company was called at 5 p. m. yesterday to check a chimney fire in a house at Cherry Hill Farm, Sawkill road. The fire caused no serious damage, firemen said.

Begins in Ismailia

The fighting began in Ismailia, a midway point in the canal zone, at dawn. It ended shortly after noon, the British said, when Egyptian police resistance collapsed.

Despite appeals from outside sources for efforts to make peace in the Suez, relations between the British and the Egyptians appeared to be at their worst point since Egypt canceled the 1936 Anglo-Egyptian treaty last October and demanded that British troops get out of the vital canal area.

Alger Hiss Asks New Trial On Claim of New Evidence

New York, Jan. 25 (AP)—Alger Hiss asked for a retrial based on what he says is new evidence that he can prove he told the truth when he said he did not give American secrets to a pre-war Russian spy ring.

The one-time top State Department aide appealed yesterday for a third trial. The jury in his first trial was dismissed by the court in a five-year sentence.

Hiss said he had new facts to back up his defense that he was convicted partly by typewritten forgeries.

And he attacked key testimony of Whittaker Chambers, self-styled courier for the spy ring, and a second trial surprise witness who identified himself as Chambers' former maid.

The new plea came 10 months after Hiss, a right hand man for the late President Roosevelt, at Yalta, began serving his term. The motion will be argued Feb. 4.

At both trials the government contended Hiss used a battered old Woodstock typewriter to copy State Department documents and gave copies to Chambers.

The typewriter was a key exhibit at both trials.

It was generally accepted there—as elsewhere—that each typewriter had unmistakable traits of its own.

But Hiss' motion yesterday said engineers had built him a special typewriter that would type just like the old one.

He said this indicated that Chambers, his principal accuser, could somehow have forged the documents.

Furthermore, his petition said, the old typewriter used at the trials might not even have been "a plant" and not the machine Hiss once used.

His lawyer, Chester T. Lane, argued the Federal Bureau of Investigation of hampering his efforts, and said:

Resolution Of Russia Is Adopted

UN Committee Favors Move Calling for Satellite Nations to Get Membership

Is Package Deal

U. S. Objections Given No Recognition in Admitting All

Paris, Jan. 25 (AP)—The United Nations Political committee, over strenuous U. S. objections, today adopted a Russian resolution calling on the Security Council to reconsider membership applications from 14 countries, including Italy and five Soviet satellites.

The United States said it had no objection to reconsideration of the candidates but vigorously opposed the resolution because the Soviet Union made it clear in debate that the proposal was designed to have all 14 admitted in one package deal.

First Slam at U. S.

It was the first time in UN history that the political committee adopted a major Soviet resolution over American opposition.

The vote was 21 to 12 with 25 abstentions. This is less than the two-thirds majority required for final passage in a General Assembly plenary session which must confirm the committee action.

U. S. Delegate Ernest A. Gross said he did not construe the vote as a defeat for the United States. He said he was confident the resolution would be defeated in the Assembly.

The Russian resolution calls on the Security Council to reconsider in one group 14 countries who have applied for UN membership—Albania, Bulgaria, Hungary, Romania, and outer Mongolia, all backed by the Soviet Union, and the western-sponsored countries, Ireland, Ceylon, Finland, Nepal, Austria, Jordan, Libya and Portugal.

Soviet Delegate Jacob Malik told the committee during the debate that if the council brought the applicant countries up in one package, Russia would refrain from using the veto which so far has blocked the admission of the western candidates.

Insists on Individuals

The United States, which also has the veto in the council, insisted that each candidate be judged on its individual merits. The U. S. contends that the Soviet satellites do not live up to the "peace-loving" requirements of the UN charter.

Earlier the committee adopted a Peruvian resolution asking the Big Five on the council—the U. S., Britain, the Soviet Union, France and China—to get together in a try to break the deadlock which has held up the admission of new members.

UN Negotiators Would Go On to Other Matters and Let Airfield Issue Wait

Munsan, Korea, Jan. 25 (AP)—Allied truce negotiators suggested today that the thorny question of airfield construction be set aside temporarily and staff officers start work immediately on other details of policing a Korean armistice.

Chinese Maj. Gen. Hsieh Fang promised to study the proposal and reply later. He did not say when.

"Basically, this is another effort of the UN command to achieve a realistic armistice as rapidly as possible," said Brig. Gen. William P. Nuckles, allied spokesman.

The issue of whether the Communists have the right to build and repair military airfields in North Korea during an armistice has deadlocked truce supervision negotiations since Jan. 9.

Friday Maj. Gen. Howard M. Turner asked the Reds to choose one of three possible courses of action:

1. Continue subcommittee discussions while staff officers start work on points already agreed upon in principle.

2. Call a temporary recess until the staff officers complete their work.

3. Turn over the airfield issue to the staff officers for discussion after they agree on other points.

Public Hearing Scheduled On Car Races at City Stadium

Whether to have stock car races at the municipal stadium this summer is the subject for a public hearing in the city hall Monday at 7:30 p. m.

Alderman Robert Cullum of the 12th ward, chairman of the building and supplies committee of the Common Council, has announced the session to be held in the council chamber.

Cullum, in whose ward the stadium is situated, urges all interested in the races and those opposed to attend the meeting.

Sports-minded residents of the city are anxious for promotion of the races so they won't have to ride to tracks outside of Ulster county to enjoy their favorite pastime.

Hiss was convicted on Jan. 25, 1950. The United States Court of Appeals affirmed the conviction and the United States Supreme Court decided not to review the case.

Democratic Conference Expected to Urge Another Term as President

Washington, Jan. 25 (AP)—Congressmen reached widely differing conclusions today as result of President Truman's remarks about leaving the door open for him to run for his old Senate seat instead of seeking another White House term.

His mention of the Missouri situation only fogged the picture for the crystal ball gazers. But there did appear to be general agreement about one thing—that Mr. Truman probably planned his words to add to the mystery regarding his plans.

No one professed to know for sure, but there were renewed predictions Mr. Truman (1) will seek re-election to the presidency, (2) won't run for anything, (3) very well may bid for the seat he once held as a Missouri senator. Revives Talk Himself

The President himself revived talk about the Missouri Senate seat. He did so by telling his news conference late yesterday he will announce his plans before the filing deadline for the senatorial primary in Missouri, which is April 29.

That at least may have pushed ahead the date for announcing his decision. Previously he had promised only that he would disclose his intentions before the Republican party's presidential nominating convention, which starts July 7.

But it did nothing to provide any solid clue to what the President is going to do.

Yesterday's rumaround all started when Mr. Truman was asked whether he would run for the Senate in Missouri if he decides not to run for the presidency again.

Door Always Open

After replying he couldn't answer whether the President was asked if he was leaving the door open for a possible Senate race.

Yes, he was, the President replied, adding that the door is always open in politics.

That is what makes politics such an interesting game, he went on, it beats football, baseball, basketball and any other sport.

The President then contributed an additional fillip to the interesting game by saying, in reply to a question, that he did not know what the deadline is for filing in the Missouri Senate race.

Bandits Seize $27,000 Pay Roll

Three Guards Disarmed at Housing Project in Flushing

New York, Jan. 25 (AP)—Three bandits disarmed guards at a Queens housing project pay office today and escaped with a $27,000 roll.

The holdup came just as the money was being delivered to the Pomonok Housing Project from Manhattan.

The bandits, one armed with a shotgun and the others with revolvers, made their appearance as three guards of the Tracalarm, Inc., a private agency, piled the pay roll on a desk.

Guns Taken Away

The bandits relieved the guards of their guns, and forced them and five other men, including the project foreman, to stand facing a wall.

Scoping up the money, which was in pay envelopes, the bandits locked the eight men in a pay office, and fled in a green car, witnesses said.

Two guards smashed out of the locked pay office, and tried to pursue the trio, but a sand truck turning into the project area blocked the guards' car.

The pay roll money belonged to the William M. Moore Construction Co., of Manhattan, which is a contractor on the project for building several hundred multiple-apartment dwellings.

The project is on the site of the former Pomonok Country Club, at Kissena boulevard and 65th avenue, Flushing.

Quarter of Million Now Wait Jump-Off Into Southeast Asia; Fears Soviet Maneuver

Resources Desired

Communists Are Eager for Tin, Rubber, Oil, Other Necessities

New York, Jan. 25 (AP)—Thomas E. Dewey, in a soberly worded warning, said last night that the free world is courting catastrophe if it fails to take prompt action against aggression in Southeast Asia.

He repeated again his months-old demand for a mutual defense treaty of free Pacific nations and said:

"We should make it clear that we will not hesitate to use every weapon at our command and every weapon we may develop in the future in the manner that hurts the aggressor most."

"If we do not issue such a warning," the two-time Republican candidate for president added, "I believe we will have war."

Dewey, who traveled widely last summer in the Far East, called attention to the fact that the United States is committed to the defense of Japan, the Philippine Islands, Australia and New Zealand.

"But, as it stands today, we have guaranteed either too much or too little," he said.

Says Troops Ready

Poised for an invasion of Southeast Asia, the New York governor said, are a quarter million sedan-red Chinese troops.

Of this threat to Burma and Indochina, he said:

"If we wait for an attack by Red China upon Southeast Asia and then take the case to the United Nations, the Russians will stalemate action until all is lost."

Yes, he was, the President replied, adding that the door is always open in politics.

That is what makes politics such an interesting game, he went on, it beats football, baseball, basketball and any other sport.

The President then contributed an additional fillip to the interesting game by saying, in reply to a question, that he did not know what the deadline is for filing in the Missouri Senate race.

Defense Would Shrink

And, he warned, "the defense of America would shrink back to Hawaii or to the coast of California."

Dewey spoke at a meeting of the National Industrial Conference Board, a business and industrial organization that sponsors fact-finding through scientific research. His speech was heard by a nation-wide radio audience.

Dewey is behind Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower for the Republican presidential nomination.

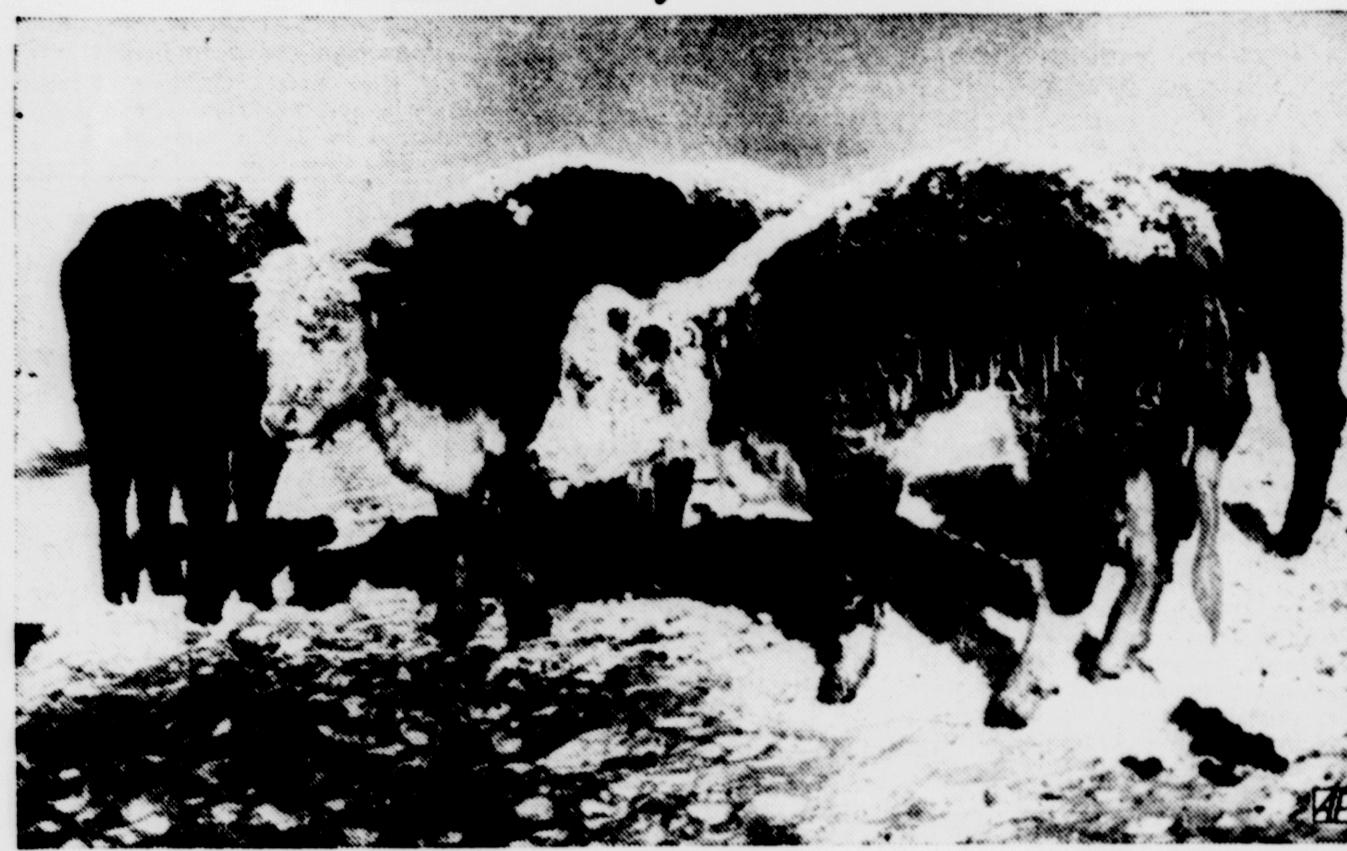

And he has been mentioned, in political speculation, as a top contender for the post of U. S. Secretary of State should Eisenhower win the Republican nomination and be elected in November.

Church Official Warns President

Council President Declares Act Would Be End of His Chances

Washington, Jan. 25 (AP)—President Truman has been advised by a Protestant churchman that his insistence on sending an ambassador to the Vatican will bring him defeat at the polls if he seeks re-election.

This advice came last night from the Rev. Carl McIntire of Collingswood, N. J., president of the International Council of Christian Churches.

He told a Bible-carrying rally, estimated to number 4,000, that "all the unions there are can't elect" Mr. Truman now.

The President has not announced whether he will seek another term. He told his news conference yesterday he would go ahead with his plan to name a full-fledged ambassador to the Holy See.

The day-long Protestant rally, sponsored by the American Council of Christian Churches, unanimously adopted a resolution declaring that "so long as we live, we will resist with all our strength the sending of any diplomatic representative to the Vatican."

"Trespassing" Is Cited

The resolution said the church and state must avoid "trespassing" on one another's domain.

"We shall as individual citizens work for the defeat at the polls of any man or any party which is disposed to undermine the Constitution," it said.

A council spokesman told newsmen those at the Constitution Hall rally came from 33 states plus the District of Columbia. The council—claiming a membership of two million persons—has 14 affiliated denominations, all relatively small groups or dissident factions split from major denominations.

The council said yesterday Mr. Truman had refused to see a dele-

Limited Probe Has Approval of Some Democrats

Washington, Jan. 25 (AP)—Some Democratic sentiment was reported today for a "limited" congressional investigation of Attorney General McGrath.

This word came from both Republican and Democratic sources as the House Judiciary Committee put over until next Tuesday its final decision on a GOP-backed resolution to spotlight Justice Department activities.

The committee has before it a proposal by Rep. Keating (R-N.Y.) to inquire into what he charges are Justice Department failures to prosecute criminal cases, and into alleged instances of "influence and favoritism."

Just how far committee Democrats would go in backing an investigation of President Truman's "clean-up" director, was not clear.

Would Go Along

But some Democratic members—who outnumber the Republicans 17 to 13—indicated privately they would go along if the Republicans "make a case" and prove it is no "fishing expedition."

The same view was reported by several committee Republicans. Keating told newsmen he was confident "some Democrats probably will vote for the resolution."

The question appeared to rest on the extent of the inquiry.

Keating wants a full-scale investigation, and yesterday said he presented nearly a dozen cases involving "misfeasance or malfeasance, or both," in support of his proposal.

Alger Hiss Asks New Trial On Claim of New Evidence

New York, Jan. 25 (AP)—Alger Hiss asked for a retrial based on what he says is new evidence that he can prove he told the truth when he said he did not give American secrets to a pre-war American spy ring.

The one-time top State Department aide appealed yesterday for a third trial. The jury in his first trial was dismissed when it couldn't agree. The second trial resulted in a five-year sentence.

Hiss said he had new facts to back up his defense that he was convicted partly by typewritten forgery.

And he attacked key testimony of Whittaker Chambers, self-styled courier for the spy ring, and a second trial surprise witness who identified herself as Chambers' former maid.

"We search for records—the FBI has them."

"We ask questions—the FBI will not let people talk to us."

"We request access to ordinary documents in corporate files—corporate officials fear the wrath of their stockholders . And even worse, honorable and patriotic citizens who have wanted to help have been deterred by the appearance—whether or not it is really—of official surveillance and wire-tapping."

The motion also contended:

1. Lee Pressman, former attorney for the Congress of Industrial Organization, contradicted Chambers' trial testimony by telling the House Un-American Activities Committee that Hiss was not a fellow member of a Communist cell.

Chambers testified that Hiss and Pressman were in the same cell in 1934. Later, Pressman told the committee that he had been a member—but not he.

2. Lane asserted he had proof that Chambers broke with the Communist party and went "into hiding" in March, 1938, although he testified he had received secret documents from Hiss as late as April 1, 1938.

3. Lane contradicted the testimony of Edith Murray, a servant, who said she saw Hiss at Chambers' home in Baltimore 14 years earlier. Lane said he had two affidavits saying that Chambers did not have a maid at that time.

Hiss' attorney said that Miss Murray had been used as a government witness on the last day of the trial.

Thus, he added, "the defense had no way of preparing to test her truthfulness or the accuracy of her recollection by cross-examination."

Hiss was convicted on Jan. 25, 1950. The United States Court of Appeals affirmed the conviction and the United States Supreme Court decided not to review the case.

Living Costs Gain New High and Rise Still Continuing

Automatic Hike Allowed Under Wage Formula to 15 Per Cent of January, 1950

Washington, Jan. 25 (AP)—The government's living cost barometer is due to go up again today to a new high.

The consumers price index compiled by the Bureau of Labor Statistics—widely accepted as the government's best measuring rod on living cost changes—has shown an almost unbroken upward glide all during 1950 and 1951.

Today's latest revision was expected to show a nominal rise for mid-November. The average retail price rise for moderate-income city families was due to be about one-half of one per cent higher in mid-December than a month earlier.

The increase will mean an automatic hike in the amount of wage increases allowed under the formula of the Wage Stabilization Board. The board permits wages to go up 10 per cent from January 1950 levels, and allows on top of that living cost increases since Jan. 15, 1951.

Based on the new index, the government wage formula will permit wage increases of about 15 per cent above January 1950 levels. The wage board sanctions pay boosts even beyond 15 per cent under special circumstances.

Higher prices for food and heavy consumer goods were believed to be the main reasons for the recent price increases.

Slim Chances Seen In Altering State Divorce Statute

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 25 (AP)—Another move apparently was under way today in the Legislature toward easing New York's strict divorce law, but Republican leaders predicted it probably would fail.

Creation of a state commission to study the state's divorce and annulment statutes was proposed yesterday by Assemblywoman Janet Hill Gordon, Norwich Rep.

She said many "matrimonial actions" instituted in state courts were "shot through with collusion and many are conceived in fraud."

Creation of a commission to study the situation, she contended, would be "the logical first step in eliminating the French exuded by present matrimonial proceedings and in strengthening the institution of marriage generally." The commission would recommend legal "revisions or modifications."

Died in Committee

Similar proposals by Mrs. Gordon died in committee at the 1949

and 1951 sessions of the Republican-controlled Legislature. Both proposals were described generally as moves toward liberalizing the New York divorce law.

Adultery is the only ground for divorce in New York.

Smothering of Mrs. Gordon's previous proposals was attributed in considerable part to opposition by the Roman Catholic Church, which does not recognize divorce on any ground.

In 1949, the State Council of Churches, a Protestant group, called for "more just and wholesome" divorce laws in New York state. The organization said the present law was "neither just nor humane."

Rabbis Asked Change

Five groups of New York city rabbis, in 1949, called on Governor Dewey and the Legislature to set up a commission to examine the divorce law "and to recommend improved legislation."

Mrs. Gordon's newest bill was referred to the Assembly Ways and Means Committee, where the proposal twice had died before.

Chairman D. Mallory Stephens of Ways and Means always has opposed any change in New York's divorce law.

He said today he had not yet seen Mrs. Gordon's new bill, and added:

"If it is different from last year's, we will study it carefully and see what the problem is. It will be discussed carefully."

He said some members of the legal profession were interested in a study of the divorce and annulment laws.

Other GOP leaders saw little chance for the Gordon bill.

Mrs. Gordon, a lawyer, proposed that a 23-member commission be established. It would consist of three senators, five assemblymen and 15 members appointed by the governor—to represent "every shade of political and religious philosophy and technical competence."

Her measure carries $50,000 appropriation.

The commission would be required to report to the Legislature by Feb. 15, 1953.

NEW PALTZ NEWS

Van Rensselaer Is To Instruct Classes

New Paltz, Jan. 25—Kenneth Van Rensselaer of Woodstock, well-known portrait painter, will instruct classes in portraiture beginning Tuesday, Feb. 5. Miss Myra Geralds, president of the New Paltz Art Association has announced.

Formerly a teacher in the Saxton Falls School of Art in Kingston and now on free-lance work, Van Rensselaer's teaching ability was described by A. C. Champainer, director of the school.

Five groups of New York city rabbis, in 1949, called on Governor Dewey and the Legislature to set up a commission to examine the divorce law "and to recommend improved legislation."

Mrs. Gordon's newest bill was referred to the Assembly Ways and Means Committee, where the proposal twice had died before.

Chairman D. Mallory Stephens of Ways and Means always has opposed any change in New York's divorce law.

He said today he had not yet seen Mrs. Gordon's new bill, and added:

"If it is different from last year's, we will study it carefully and see what the problem is. It will be discussed carefully."

He said some members of the legal profession were interested in a study of the divorce and annulment laws.

Other GOP leaders saw little chance for the Gordon bill.

Mrs. Gordon, a lawyer, proposed that a 23-member commission be established. It would consist of three senators, five assemblymen and 15 members appointed by the governor—to represent "every shade of political and religious philosophy and technical competence."

Her measure carries $50,000 appropriation.

The commission would be required to report to the Legislature by Feb. 15, 1953.

Movie Is Planned

New Paltz, Jan. 25—A movie in technicolor, "Of These Things We Are Proud" will be shown at the Couples' Club Sunday at 8 p. m. at the Methodist Church. The film is from the Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corp. Election of officers and games are also on the program for the evening. Hosts and hostesses will be Mr. and Mrs. Walter Dyer and Mr. and Mrs. Francis Hasbrouck.

Mrs. Chester Roosa and Mrs. Clyde Roosa recently visited Mrs. Maggie Rider who is ill at her home near Accord.

Appearing at the local store from time to time are bulletins concerning the activities of the Lyonsville Rangers. Currently, the Rangers who are Wanda Roosa, Ronald Roosa, Keith Knudsen and Gerald Gartman, are interested in protecting wild game.

Mrs. Floyd Davis and Mrs. Leslie Karley visited Mrs. John Andersen at the Ellenville hospital Monday afternoon.

Mrs. John Rust and daughter, Mildred Elizabeth of Garfield, N. J., are spending the week with Mrs. Rust's mother and brother, Mrs. Frank DeFranco and Frank Jr.

Mrs. Esther Wood has been reported improved in health after being ill at her home for some time.

F. G. Baumgarten of Stone Ridge was at the local store Wednesday for the purpose of receiving state, county and town taxes from local property holders.

Whole Villages Punished

Vienna, Austria, Jan. 25 (AP)—A sharpening food crisis in Czechoslovakia has prompted the government to punish whole villages where farmers are suspected of holding out on agricultural deliveries, the American-sponsored newspaper Wiener Kurier said today.

Communities which fail to meet the delivery quota are denied ration tickets for clothing, soap and other necessities, the paper said.

More than 10,000 party agents, trained to supervise delivery of agricultural products, will be posted as "advisers" in the offices of village mayors by the end of this month, Wiener Kurier added.

Jan. 29. Mrs. Harris will visit another daughter, Mrs. F. A. Wilhelm, in Mojave, Calif., and expects to be away for six months.

John Mack recently obtained a young golden eagle from West Shokan and had it stuffed by taxidermist Nicholas Van Rensselaer. Bald eagles are not too uncommon in this area, according to Mr. Mack, but golden eagles are rarely found east of the Mississippi river. The bird is now on view in the high school science room.

Slim Chances Seen In Altering State Divorce Statute

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 25 (AP)—Another move apparently was under way today in the Legislature toward easing New York's strict divorce law, but Republican leaders predicted it probably would fail.

Creation of a state commission to study the state's divorce and annulment statutes was proposed yesterday by Assemblywoman Janet Hill Gordon, Norwich Rep.

She said many "matrimonial actions" instituted in state courts were "shot through with collusion and many are conceived in

Creation of a commission to study the situation, she contended, would be "the logical first step in eliminating the French exuded by present matrimonial proceedings and in strengthening the institution of marriage generally." The commission would recommend legal revisions or modifications.

Died in Committee

Similar proposals by Mrs. Gordon died in committee at the 1949

and 1951 sessions of the Republican-controlled Legislature. Both proposals were described generally as moves toward liberalizing the New York divorce law.

Adultery is the only ground for divorce in New York.

Smothering of Mrs. Gordon's previous proposals was attributed in considerable part to opposition by the Roman Catholic Church, which does not recognize divorce on any ground.

In 1949, the State Council of Churches, a Protestant group, called for "more just and wholesome" divorce laws in New York state. The organization said the present law was "neither just nor humane."

Rabbis Asked Change

Five groups of New York city rabbis, in 1949, called on Governor Dewey and the Legislature to set up a commission to examine the divorce law "and to recommend improved legislation."

Van Rensselaer Is To Instruct Classes

Jan. 14 restricting traffic and parking in certain areas in the village will become effective Feb. 1, it was announced today.

The sections regarding restrictions are as follows:

No person shall operate a motor vehicle or motorcycle upon that portion of Tricor avenue extending from Hasbrouck avenue to Mohonk avenue in the village of New Paltz between the hours of 9 a. m. and 3 p. m. on any day when the Campus school is in session.

No vehicle shall be parked on any public highway or street within the corporate limits of the village between the hours of 2 a. m. and 6 a. m. during the period from Dec. 1 through March 1 of each year.

To Teach Class

New Paltz, Jan. 25—Mrs. Helen Huntington will instruct a class of Home Bureau members in making hooked mats Friday, Feb. 1. The group will meet at the home of Mrs. C. K. Woodbridge on Library road.

The artist's instruction periods often include his execution of a quick portrait in front of the class, which proves even more helpful than criticism of his pupils' work alone.

Not only has Van Rensselaer had wide experience in painting portraits for many persons in New York and in Kingston, but his war experience gave him ample opportunity to develop and perfect his style.

He served as a combat artist in Army for 14 months and most of his work was incorporated into the 91st Division historical files.

Van Rensselaer has won scholarships at the Art Students League and the National Academy of Design in New York, and has won the Tiffany Fellowship. He remained with the army for a period after the war's end, designing stages and sets for soldier shows and painting murals and portraits.

Some of Van Rensselaer's work was on exhibition last year in the S.S. Seahorse, a Woodstock restaurant which has frequent shows.

Anyone interested in joining the classes under Van Rensselaer's instruction may notify Miss Myra Geralds, New Paltz, by postcard. Miss Geralds reminds present members of the art group that any work they plan to enter in the art exhibit at the college must be completed soon since the show will be held in the near future.

Movie Is Planned

New Paltz, Jan. 25—A movie in technicolor, Of These Things We Are Proud will be shown to the Couples' Club Sunday at 8 p. m. at the Methodist Church. School to Close

New Paltz, Jan. 25—There will be no school for the children who attend the Campus Elementary school, Jan. 28 and 29. Principal Harold Elsberry reports. Those two days have been designated as Teachers' Work Days. Teachers will spend the time in conferences, evaluating and recording pupils' achievements during the first semester, analyzing pupils' needs and making plans for the second semester.

Mrs. John Rust and daughter

Mildred Elizabeth of Garfield, N. J., are spending the week with Mrs. Rust's mother and brother, Mrs. Frank DeFranco and Frank Jr.

Mrs. Esther Wood has been reported improved in health after being ill at her home for some time.

The spectacle, featuring more than 300 musicians, 20 singers and more than a dozen novelty entertainers, is scheduled for Monday, Jan. 28, at 8 p. m. in the Kingsbury Municipal Auditorium. It is under the sponsorship of Local 215, American Federation of Musicians, AFL, and Radio Station WKLY.

Marchuk, secretary of the musicians' union, beamed with pride as he announced that the entire High School Band would play Monday, and that a young polio victim would reign as king at the auditorium.

Joe Kelly, 11-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Kelly, 133 Ten Broeck avenue, will occupy the regal position, arriving in a pony cart drawn by two diminutive steeds loaned for the occasion by James McCabe, local restaurateur, who operates Bright Acres ranch on the Onteora Trail.

Marchuk said arrangements would be made for King Joe to ride up the center aisle and take his place on a throne on mid-stage.

Parents Praise March of Dimes

Relative to the appearance of the youngster, a pupil at the Myron L. Michael School, his parents said they were pleased Joe could assist in the March of Dimes. "There's nothing we wouldn't do to help," said his father, a former alderman, "because if it weren't for the polio foundation, Joe might not be with us today, or he'd be a cripple."

At the time Mr. Kelly talked, he was strapping a pair of skates on his son so he could glide over a homemade pond in the backyard.

"Joe's doing fine," he said,

With a demeanor more convincing than an agent's representing the greatest show on earth, Mike Marchuk told a reporter the third annual Parade of Bands will be the biggest and best ever presented to raise funds for the March of Dimes.

When he was discharged from the hospital, Joe wrote his appreciation in a letter to The Freeman, thanking all who had administered to him during his siege.

Ready to Play Again

She stressed that little Joe couldn't move a muscle and was unable to talk, but the treatment he received started him on the road to becoming a normal youngster again full of vim and vigor with a yearning to play games again.

"Thank God and all those helping to combat polio," she said. "Joe is like himself again."

When the little king rides through the auditorium, he'll be dressed in a wardrobe furnished by London's Youth Center, 33-35 North Front street, and those there to greet him will see for themselves what great strides have been taken in combatting the dread cripple.

The doors will open at 7 p. m., and those desiring front seats are advised to arrive early.

At 7:30 the high school band will play a half hour concert, and when that ends the Parade of Bands will start, playing requests numbers phoned in by the polio fund.

Brigadoon Tunes On Hit Parade

Some of the loveliest music ever composed is to be heard in the Critic's Prize award musical comedy Brigadoon, which comes to the Kingston High School Auditorium, direct from a two-year run on Broadway, Tuesday, February 12 under the sponsorship of the Kingston Rotary Club. The entire production, duplicate in every detail of the Broadway original, comes intact to Kingston with a large cast of New York's favorite singers, dancers and comedians.

The song hits of the show, recorded by RCA Victor, have sold over a million copies in this country and abroad. Only two weeks after the opening of Brigadoon in New York, its romantic tune It's Almost Like Being in Love was included on the television and radio program of The Hit Parade and the entire score was sung on the Railroad Hour. Popular numbers in the musical include Heather on the Hill, the Love of My Life, Come to Me Bend to Me, Waitin' for My Dearie, From This Day On, There But for You Go I and an hilarious comedy song that will be whistled long after the show leaves town. My Mother's Wedding Day. The music for Brigadoon was composed by Frederick Loewe. He is internationally known in music circles, having had his start as a child prodigy conducting the Berlin Symphony Orchestra at the age of 13. He wrote the American operetta La Tosca to Spring for the St. Louis Municipal Opera and is currently represented on Broadway by the new musical hit Paint Your Wagon.

Lyrics and the book of Brigadoon were written by Alan Jan Lerner who is responsible for the story and screen play of the film An American in Paris.

There will be a special student matinee Tuesday afternoon, February 12. Tickets are available at the high school.

Three New Magazines Born This Month In City Celebrating 300th Anniversary

A firm believer in the old adage, reporter as to the selection of truth is stranger than fiction, Strange, Mr. Quinn had this to say: "Strange was conceived on a hot day last summer during an after-lunch gab session. A group of writers was sitting around talking, when Charles Boswell of Woodstock, author of more than 500 tales of true crime and mystery, went into an account of a strange story he had come across while digging up material for one of his true crime articles appearing in a national publication. No sooner had he finished his narration than the others began recounting experiences of stories unearthed in their research work. The enthusiasm was so great that we returned to the office and kicked an idea around for a magazine embracing these strange accounts.

Interviewed in his attractive offices, the busy editor and publisher was surrounded with proofs of art work to be used for future covers and numerous scripts embracing forthcoming stories for the new publications, to be read and edited. Although the stories accepted for the first edition of the magazines were submitted through assignment, Mr. Quinn stated that he reads all unsolicited stories "because you never know when you might get one that's really good." The art work is handled by the Charles A. Cooper Advertising Company in New York City. Mr. Cooper, a resident of Woodstock, is well known in this locale and frequently offers commissions to artists of that community.

Brigadoon Tunes On Hit Parade

Some of the loveliest music ever composed is to be heard in the Critics' Prize award musical comedy Brigadoon, which comes to the Kingston High School Auditorium, direct from a two-year run on Broadway, Tuesday, February 12 under the sponsorship of the Kingston Rotary Club. The entire production, duplicate in every detail of the Broadway original, comes intact to Kingston with a large cast of New York's favorite singers, dancers and comedians.

The song hits of the show, recorded by RCA Victor, have sold over a million copies in this country and abroad. Only two weeks after the opening of Brigadoon in New York, its romantic tune "It's Almost Like Being in Love" was included on the television and radio program of The Hit Parade and the entire score was sung on the Railroad Hour. Popular numbers in the musical include "Heather on the Hill," the "Love of My Life," "Come to Me Bend to Me," "Waitin' for My Dearie, From This Day On," "There But for You Go I" and an hilarious comedy song that will be whistled long after the show leaves town. My Mother's Wedding Day. The music for Brigadoon was composed by Frederick Loewe. He is internationally known in music circles, having had his start as a child prodigy conducting the Berlin Symphony Orchestra at the age of 13. He wrote the American operetta Salute to Spring for the St. Louis Municipal Opera and is currently represented on Broadway by the new musical hit Paint Your Wagon.

Lyrics and the book of Brigadoon were written by Alan Jay Lerner who is responsible for the story and screen play of the film An American in Paris. There will be a special students' matinee Tuesday afternoon, February 12. Tickets are available at the high school.

Aware of City Through Publications

Quinn Publishing Co., Inc., 308 Clinton avenue, this city has introduced to its reading public, three pocket-sized magazines, Strange, If, and Crossword, over a half million copies of which have been distributed throughout the United States and Canada. During the past 10 years this company has also distributed approximately 10 millions of pocket-sized books to countries all over the globe. James L. Quinn, editor and publisher, is in the photo surrounded by some of his publications and art work for covers to be used in the future. (Freeman Photo)

Three New Magazines Born This Month In City Celebrating 300th Anniversary

A firm believer in the old adage, "truth is stranger than fiction," James L. Quinn, editor-publisher, Quinn Publishing Co., Inc., 308 Clinton avenue, evolved the idea for a pocket-size magazine comprising unbelievably strange stories based on true mystery. The idea became a reality this month when over one-half million copies of the first edition of Strange, a science-fiction magazine, and Crossword, a puzzle publication as the name would imply, were distributed in 700 cities in the United States and Canada. Printed therein is the name of the colonial city shown as the location for the business and executive offices of the company.

Interviewed in his attractive offices, the busy editor and publisher was surrounded with proofs of art work to be used for future covers and numerous scripts embracing forthcoming stories for the new publications, to be read and edited. Although the stories accepted for the first edition of the magazines were submitted through assignment, Mr. Quinn stated that he reads all unsolicited stories "because you never know when you might get one that's really good." The art work is handled by the Charles A. Cooper Advertising Company in New York City. Mr. Cooper, a resident of Woodstock, is well known in this locale and frequently offers commissions to artists of that community.

Strange is Born

To satisfy the curiosity of the reporter as to the selection of Strange, Mr. Quinn had this to say: "Strange was conceived on a hot day last summer during an after-lunch gab session. A group of writers was sitting around talking, when Charles Boswell of Woodstock, author of more than 500 tales of true crime and mystery, went into an account of a strange story he had come across while digging up material for one of his true crime articles appearing in national publication. No sooner had he finished his story, than the others began recounting experiences of stories unearthed in their research work. The enthusiasm was so great that we returned to the office and kicked an idea around for a magazine embracing these strange accounts."

It was not long after this red letter day that Strange was born. It is a magazine of true mystery, comprising the strange, baffling and bizarre stories the fiction writer would hesitate to incorporate in his plot as too unbelievable.

The writers appearing in the first issue include such names as Lewis Thompson, William T. Brannon, Leslie Cameron, Joseph Fulling Fishman and Charles Boswell.

If, a science-fiction magazine, also in its first edition was described by Mr. Quinn when he said, "we have tried to make it different from any other science-fiction magazine on the stands." The outstanding contributors to the original edition include Howard Browne, Ray Palmer, Richard Shaver, Roger Phillips, and Theodore Sturgeon. It will be introduced in the near future to the television audience on Tales of Tomorrow, a program dramatizing science-fiction stories. Mr. Quinn said:

It was learned too, that plans are in the making for a national radio program which will dramatize stories appearing in Strange.

Hub of Activity

The editorial and business offices of the publishing company on Clinton avenue are a hub of activity these days as they prepare for the second edition of the magazine trio to be on the news stands early in March. The paper used for the publications is made in Glens Falls and Quebec, plates in New York and the printing is done in Buffalo. Supervising these many details at long distance adds considerably to the job of the editor-publisher. Mr. Quinn looks forward to a possible future time when much of the work can be centralized in this locale, and is the local distributor. The mail orders are handled direct at the business offices.

Editors

In his new enterprise, Mr. Quinn is assisted by Miss Beatrice Bogert of Hurley who edits the crossword publication. Paul Farman who resides in Paterson, N. J., but hopes eventually to reside in this area, is the editor of If magazine. Mr. Quinn writes editorials and edits Strange and publishes all three magazines.

Before coming to this city six years ago, the editor-publisher resided in New York where for many years he had been engaged in advertising and free lance fiction writing. In 1941 he entered the business of publishing pocket-sized books and continued in that field after he became a resident here. During his 10 years in the business, he published over 10,000,000 books which were distributed to many parts of the world, including such far distant points as Japan, Iran, South Africa, and others too numerous to mention. He has become well established in this field of enterprise and while continuing therein, will concentrate his efforts on the new magazines.

Strange Popular

It is too early to form an opinion about the popularity of Strange, If, and Crossword. Mr. Quinn stated and added, however, that he has already received hundreds of letters bearing favorable comment. "As a matter of fact, it is hard to believe," he said.

Sure is true for '52

A conventional carburetor—big enough to supply the rush of air needed at full throttle—can be wasteful in stop-and-go driving.

A carburetor sized only for thrift in city traffic literally smothers your engine when you really give it the gun.

So Buick engineers came up with the Airpower carburetor—a four-barrel automatic—and here's how it works.

When you want to loaf along, two barrels are working, two stay closed. There's even a governor that keeps them shut during warm-up periods. And you get a low-speed thrift and smoothness that's out of this world.

As you pick up speed, the "stand-bys" smoothly come into play—feeding not just more gas, but more air too—which means that you keep on getting maximum power from each drop of fuel.

You have 170 effortless horsepower when you need it—a tremendous reserve of power ready to go into instant action at the nudge of your toe.

THE PERSONAL ELEMENT

In order to get a more personal approach to prospective clients, savings and loan association in an eastern city has employed a housewife whose job is not to sell but merely to visit women in their homes and become acquainted with them. When she has been invited into a home she chats about the many problems and interests common to women who make homes and raise children.

The name of her employer is mentioned only at the beginning of the conversation. The visitor keeps a careful record of what is said, however, and these records are read at meetings of the board of directors of the association.

The work of the woman visitor has two purposes. The heads of the business hope to get a better idea of what the people are like who make up their clientele. They hope that the housewife who receives a visit may afterwards associate the name of the company with the friendly, neighborly person who came to chat in her living room.

Many businesses which serve the public have grown so large and complex that direct contact between officials and customers is impossible. Customers judge a company and its policies by the representatives with whom they do come in contact. This is one reason why wise managers seek intelligent, courteous people especially for jobs which involve meeting the customers.

Good businessmen realize that all people wish to be regarded as individuals. They make an effort to show people that their judgment, good will and patronage are important.

VALUE OF ONE VOTE

"What's the use of voting? My vote won't make any difference." This argument is heard too often from nonvoters. If they had lived in New Haven, Connecticut, they might feel differently. That city had a close mayoralty election in November, so close that a recount was called for and the final result has only recently been determined. The complete figures give the victory to Mayor William C. Celentano, a Republican, over Richard C. Lee, a Democrat, by only two votes. More than 68,000 votes were cast.

Many Lee supporters must now be kicking themselves because they did not take the trouble to vote or get out reluctant friends. New Haven residents will not be likely to argue in the near future that one vote does not count.

HOME BEAUTIFICATION

Kingston has many beautiful privet hedges, lilac hedges, yew hedges, etc. around beautiful yards. The Committee for Home Grounds Beautification for Kingston's Tercentenary suggests that owners get their pruning done so when the spring rush comes there will be plenty of time to give to the gay spring and summer flowers.

A suggestion comes from a citizen to check hedges that grow near a corner to be sure that cars nearing the corner have good visibility. An inch lower on the extreme corner can make for safety.

There will be no extension of time for getting the 1952 tab on the registration plates for motor vehicles, the Motor Vehicle Bureau announces. The 1951 motor vehicle registrations expire at midnight Thursday, January 31. Front 1951 plates also must be retained on vehicles throughout 1952.

In the cold months residents of a large part of the United States would like to reach an agreement with Canada forbidding the export of cold winds from the Arctic. But in return we'd probably have to keep the heat of summer on our own side of the border.

An automobile may be helped to operate in cold weather or brought to a sudden halt by alcohol, depending on whether it is in the radiator or the driver.

One trouble with wallets is that they won't hold enough money and another trouble is that there is never enough money in one.

Many a white lie hides a black truth.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

THE BORDERLINE OF TREASON

In a free society such as ours is, difference of view must be encouraged. The tradition of our country and England is best symbolized by Union Square and Hyde Park where men rise to denounce or praise with equal freedom.

In my boyhood, for instance, Socialists, anarchists, free traders, atheists vied with Republicans, Democrats, sound money economists, and the Salvation Army. The Communists have had a free hand in their propaganda in the spirit of our country. They can lecture, issue pamphlets, publish newspapers and magazines and take advantage of every clause in the Constitution.

Many Americans would prefer that Communists, Fascists and other separatists enjoy these freedoms rather than that our liberties be imperiled.

Now we encounter treason. It became apparent that while a creature like Fritz Kuhn was a careerist, trying to make a dollar by serving Hitler, the Communists are agents of a foreign government engaged in espionage, in sabotage, in stealing national secrets and in infiltration into government offices, educational institutions, newspapers, magazines, radio, movies and even the church.

We to say that everyone who is sympathetic to any position that the Communists take on any question is ipso facto a Communist and therefore a spy or a traitor? Obviously that cannot be established and is undoubtedly untrue.

And here, a free society becomes puzzled. Where and how to draw the line? How to make distinctions between let us say, an Alger Hiss and a Rev. William Howard Melish? How to make a distinction between John Howard Lawson and, for argument's sake, Judy Holliday, who denies affiliation? Obviously, there is a distinction, but what is the formula?

The British face the same problem. They have been shocked by such disclosures as the treachery of Dr. Alan Nunn May, Dr. Klaus Fuchs, Dr. Bruno Pontecorvo, Donald MacLean and Guy Burgess. It raised for them the question as to whether any of their security agencies, including Scotland Yard, are of value against the machinations of Soviet Russia. "The Economist" stated the British worry over these problems as follows:

"... On the one hand, there is a deep and healthy dislike of imposing restrictions on freedom of speech except under the most dire necessity, and also a fear of making martyrs by legal action against persons whom the vast majority of their fellow-countrymen regard with indifference or contempt. On the other hand, there is a feeling that the work of the British Communists on behalf of the enemy in the Korean War has really amounted to treason, and it is remembered that British subjects were hanged a few years ago for having done subversive propaganda for Nazi Germany during the Second World War."

No matter how this question is handled, there is inevitable repugnance to injustice and abuse of power. If men can be vilified by calling them Communists, they can be vilified by calling them Jews, Jehovah's Witnesses, Christian Scientists, Roman Catholics or anything else.

Yet, Communists are traitors. And their treason is all the more horrible because they do not take the risks of honest spies. They hide behind the Constitution with the object of destroying it. They take all the advantages of citizenship with the object of endangering their own country. They bask in the sun of our prosperity, hoping to turn our country into a graveyard. As citizens, they are contemptible; as human beings, they are despicable.

The Communists are skillful in using the law to their advantage. As "The Economist" says:

"... The free world is very nature contains large numbers of individuals who are accustomed to see both sides of a question and who are always ready to hear the evidence for and against."

The Communist, however, is not only orthodox but bigoted. He is not only a convert but a missionary and an advocate. He knows deception but not compromise. He rejects conventional methods of debate but achieves his ends by dissimulation and infiltration. He is difficult to fight because he is difficult to get at. He achieves most obscurity and only appears in the open when his reputation has become expendable.

Against such a foe, our tradition leaves us almost helpless. We reject the use of his weapons to fight him lest they pervert us as they have perverted him. We fear the consequences of making him exceptionally lest the structure of our freedom be damaged irreparably.

Yet, fight him we must if we are to survive. The formula is difficult; there may be injustices; but we cannot be conquered by default.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

ANXIETY CAUSE OF ASTHENIA

During and after World War I, many soldiers reported to their medical officers with what became known as "soldier's heart," effort syndrome or Da Costa's syndrome. This condition is now called neurocirculatory asthenia and means weakness or tiredness of nerves, heart and blood vessels.

A group of reserve corps medical officers was sent to England to study this condition with Sir Thomas Lewis, the noted heart specialist. These officers felt that the symptoms comprising "Effort syndrome" in normal persons were not the same as those observed in neurocirculatory asthenia. The symptoms are not due to exertion in most cases. They may occur at any time during the day or night and they are invariably caused by emotion.

A history of nervousness and emotional disturbances, based on a family history of nervousness, it appears, is the underlying cause.

An editorial in The Journal of the American Medical Association states that the symptoms are shortness of breath, tiring easily, palpitation, heart consciousness, fainting, giddiness, headache, sweating, blueness or mottled coloring of the hands. The pulse at rest and at sleep is normal but becomes very rapid by emotion or exercise and is slow in coming back to normal rate. Hurried, irregular and shallow breathing is common in the more nervous patients apart from effort; frequent deep sighs occur in many.

To what do research workers attribute all the above symptoms? They are the reaction from emotion. The outstanding emotion present is practically always anxiety and anxiety is often called "chronic tear."

All of us are anxious at times, but these individuals who have inherited this nervousness and emotional lack of balance naturally suffer greatly at times as the symptoms, all of which are present in true or organic heart disease, naturally cause anxiety or ever-present tear.

The method of treatment of this syndrome or combination of symptoms is to induce the patient to recognize that he is suffering from the effects of emotional disturbance and not from organic disease. Psychotherapy (treating the mind) must be directed toward recognition and removal of fears and anxiety. In some cases the patient's environment or surroundings must be changed.

Occasionally quieting drugs are used but the editorial points out that, while useful at times, they are not a cure.

Where the Dawn Comes Up Like ThunderThe Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington—Though Price Administrator Mike DiSalle has bucked all sorts of discouragement in his battle to hold down prices, he has never lost his unquenchable humor.

The other day he called up handsome, unhumorous Sen. John Bricker of Ohio, Republican, and the following conversation took place:

"Say, I was thinking about running for your job," announced DiSalle. "I just wanted to ask you like it."

Flabbergasted, Bricker hesitated, finally said:

"I didn't like it very much at first, but I've got so I like it now."

"Maybe I should try to make it up from you," joked DiSalle, and after a few more pleasantries:

Now Knob and Costello own several oil leases in and around county, Kansas. Costello's share in the deal nets him about $45,000 a year.

Both Knob and Costello own

you until the situation becomes hopeless."

The Justice Department, when queried, said it knew nothing about the matter. It would seem, however, that the Justice Department would not only ask Luther to explain the matter, but also examine all other outside connections of all other U. S. attorneys.

Both Knob and Costello own

"And what do you propose to do, Admiral Glassford?" Helfrich asked.

"I remain at your service," replied the American.

This and other wartime experiences have made the admirals extremely leery of foreign naval commanders.

For and Against Democracy

How Not to Make Democracy Work

Man "Iron Curtain" Congressman Heller of Brooklyn" refuses to let the Senate know about his committee's probe of the Securities and Exchange Commission.

Heller doesn't seem to realize that the House and Senate are not like west Europe and Russia; that time is the most precious thing Congress has, and that the "Iron Curtain" he has rung down between the House and Senate over the mere exchange of information will cost the Senate's Fulbright Committee thousands of dollars in time that could have been saved.

Helping to Make Democracy Live

Col. Francis Gabreski and the Oil City newspapers for adopting 300 Korean orphans at Yang-joon Chainan.

Colonel Gabreski, one of the great aces of World War II, is now commanding the 51st Fighter Interceptor Wing in Korea, and has a fresh eye and an objective attitude that a colossal program of political mischief and waste has been carried on since Germany's collapse without the knowledge of the trusting people who are paying for it and who will be held to blame in the long run. The American people have permitted an unscrupulous host of predators to carry on in the heart of old Europe a new and infinitely worse and more ingenious version of the reconstruction of the south. They are repeating in the hateful name of "democracy" many of the worst details of that monstrous.

We sent to Germany by deliberate intention of the great Washington conspiracy notorious Communists to策划 and "try" German patriots fighting for their country and we have guilty suppressed truths concerning some of these episodes which a press claiming the privilege of freedom owed the people who conferred that privilege. We are now overseeing a government of Germany administered by Germans who undoubtedly are patriotic and are said to be passably decent men who nevertheless qualify for the title of "collaborator."

In many of these cases the previous record has been such as to permit unkind suspicion. We are now hearing also of international associations of "editors," such as the International Press Institute, under the direction of Lester Markel, Sunday editor of the New York Times, whose attitude toward some people is not an unmixed guarantee that this institute is all that Markel might want us to think it is. Editors who chuck their weight about in ostentatious junkets represent no established professional standard.

It shouldn't need saying that the American government has no right to subsidize the press even in this cheap adaptation of the sordid temptations that Tex Richardson used to offer to ballyhoo his prizefights, and that papers publishing censures of such puny talents invite suspicion that their editorial favor is a commodity.

To refer briefly back to the mention of carpebagging let us distinguish between the impetuous looting done by victorious soldiers rushing through an abandoned home with the eyes of starlings carried on the back of old grudges or spats long before the war, or had made arrangements to steal their business interests. Marshal Petain ended his days in prison hidden from the sight of a people who still retained the decency to abhor this blemish on their nation's renown.

"Collaboration" was an awful crime. It means dealings and cooperation with a military conqueror but it never applied more fittingly to any group of men than it applies today to the new government of Germany. These German collaborators are co-operating with our army and the tenacious ticks of the Democratic Party's bureaucracy who have lived as members of a master race on money provided through our new picture. The American people never even suspected that agents of the American Federation of Labor, known to us all as our equivalent of Hitler's worst pre-war mob, were dumped onto our occupation forces by the Truman administration and that supine soldiers, long since adjusted to the degradation demanded by the regime which raised them from majors to lieutenants, gave the political agents of this gang of rascals free housing and luxurious food at a petty cost.

THE PERSONAL ELEMENT

In order to get a more personal approach to prospective clients, a savings and loan association in an eastern city has employed a housewife whose job is not to sell but merely to visit women in their homes and become acquainted with them. When she has been invited into a home she chats about the many problems and interests common to women who make homes and raise children. The name of her employer is mentioned only at the beginning of the conversation. The visitor keeps a careful record of what is said, however, and these records are read at meetings of the board of directors of the association.

The work of the woman visitor has two purposes. The heads of the business hope to get a better idea of what the people are like who make up their clientele. They hope that the housewife who receives a visit may afterwards associate the name of the company with the friendly, neighborly person who came to chat in her living room.

Many businesses which serve the public have grown so large and complex that direct contact between officials and customers is impossible. Customers judge a company and its policies by the representatives with whom they do come in contact. This is one reason why wise managers seek intelligent, courteous people especially for jobs which involve meeting the customers.

Good businessmen realize that all people wish to be regarded as individuals. They make an effort to show people that their judgment, good will and patronage are important.

VALUE OF ONE VOTE

"What's the use of voting? My vote won't make any difference." This argument is heard too often from nonvoters. If they had lived in New Haven, Connecticut, they might feel differently. That city had a close mayoralty election in November, so close that a recount was called for and the final result has only recently been determined. The complete figures give the victory to Mayor William C. Celentano, a Republican, over Richard C. Lee, a Democrat, by only two votes. More than 68,000 votes were cast.

Many Lee supporters must now be kicking themselves because they did not take the trouble to vote or get out reluctant friends. New Haven residents will not be likely to argue in the near future that one vote does not count.

HOME BEAUTIFICATION

Kingston has many beautiful privet hedges, lilac hedges, yew hedges, etc. around beautiful yards. The Committee for Home Grounds Beautification for Kingston's Tercentenary suggests that owners get their pruning done so when the spring rush comes there will be plenty of time to give to the gay spring and summer flowers.

A suggestion comes from a citizen to check hedges that grow near a corner to be sure that cars nearing the corner have good visibility. An inch lower on the extreme corner can make for safety.

There will be no extension of time for getting the 1952 tab on the registration plates for motor vehicles, the Motor Vehicle Bureau announces. The 1951 motor vehicle registrations expire at midnight Thursday, January 31. Front 1951 plates also must be retained on vehicles throughout 1952.

In the cold months residents of a large part of the United States would like to reach an agreement with Canada forbidding the export of cold winds from the Arctic. But in return we'd probably have to keep the heat of summer on our own side of the border.

An automobile may be helped to operate in cold weather or brought to a sudden halt by alcohol, depending on whether it is in the radiator or the driver.

One trouble with wallets is that they won't hold enough money and another trouble is that there is never enough money in one.

Many a white lie hides a black truth.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

THE BORDERLINE OF TREASON

In a free society such as ours, difference of view must be encouraged. The tradition of our country and England is best symbolized by Union Square and Hyde Park where men rise to denounce or praise with equal freedom.

In my boyhood, for instance, Socialists, anarchists, free traders, atheists vied with Republicans, Democrats, sound money economists, and the Salvation Army. The Communists have had a free hand in their propaganda in the spirit of our country. They can lecture, issue pamphlets, publish newspapers and magazines and take advantage of every clause in the Constitution.

Many Americans would prefer that Communists, Fascists and other separatists enjoy these freedoms rather than that our liberties be imperiled.

Now we encounter treason. It became apparent that while a creature like Fritz Kuhn was a careerist, trying to make a dollar by serving Hitler, the Communists are agents of a foreign government engaged in espionage, in sabotage, in stealing national secrets and in infiltration into government offices, educational institutions, newspapers, magazines, radio, movies and even the church.

Are we to say that everyone who is sympathetic to any position that the Communists take on any question is ipso facto a Communist and therefore a spy or a traitor? Obviously that cannot be established and is undoubtedly untrue.

And here, a free society becomes puzzled. Where and how to draw the line? How to make distinctions between let us say an Alger Hiss and a Rev. William Howard Mohist? How to make a distinction between John Howard Lawson and, for argument's sake, Judy Holliday, who denies affiliation? Obviously, there is a distinction, but what is the formula?

The British face the same problem. They have been shocked by such disclosures as the treachery of Dr. Allan Nunn May, Dr. Klaus Fuchs, Dr. Bruno Pontecorvo, Donald MacLean and Guy Burgess. It raised for them the question as to whether any of their security agencies, including Scotland Yard, are of value against the machinations of Soviet Russia. "The Economist" stated the British worry over these problems as follows:

"... On the one hand, there is a deep and healthy dislike of imposing restrictions on freedom of speech except under the most dire necessity, and also a fear of making martyrs by legal action against persons whom the vast majority of their fellow-countrymen regard with indifference or contempt. On the other hand, there is a feeling that the work of the British Communists on behalf of the enemy in the Korean War has really amounted to treason, and it is remembered that British subjects were hanged a few years ago for having done subversive propaganda for Nazi Germany during the Second World War..."

No matter how this question is handled, there is inevitable repugnance to injustice and abuse of power. If men can be vilified by calling them Communists, they can be vilified by calling them Jews, Jehovah's Witnesses, Christian Scientists, Roman Catholics or anything else.

Yet Communists are traitors. And their treason is all the more horrible because they do not take the risks of honest spies. They hide behind the Constitution with the object of destroying it. They take all the advantages of citizenship with the object of endangering their own country. They bask in the sun of our prosperity, hoping to turn our country into a graveyard. As citizens, they are contemptible; as human beings, they are despicable.

The Communists are skillful in using the law to their advantage. As "The Economist" says:

"... The free world by its very nature contains large numbers of individuals who are accustomed to see both sides of a question and who are always ready to hear the evidence for and against..."

The Communist, however, is not only orthodox but bigoted. He is not only a convert but a missionary and an advocate. He knows deception but not compromise. He rejects conventional methods of debate but achieves his ends by dissimulation and infiltration. He is difficult to fight because he is difficult to get at. He achieves most in obscurity and only appears in the open when his reputation has become expendable.

Against such a foe, our tradition leaves us almost helpless. We reject the use of his weapons to fight him lest they pervert us as they have perverted him. We fear the consequences of making him exceptional lest the structure of our freedom be damaged irreparably.

Yet, fight him we must if we are to survive. The formula is difficult; there may be injustices; but we cannot be conquered by default.

That Body of Yours

ANXIETY CAUSE OF ASTHENIA

During and after World War I, many soldiers reported to their medical officers with what became known as "soldier's heart," effort syndrome or Da Costa's syndrome. This condition is now called neurocirculatory asthenia and means weakness or tiredness of nerves, heart and blood vessels.

Though Howard McGrath has taken his way out of resigning as attorney general, the Justice Department has not moved regarding the unique fact that one of Frankie Costello's companies has hired a U. S. attorney.

The U. S. attorney is Lester Luther of Kansas, who became the resident agent for the Renn Oil Co. of Russell, Kan., owned by Larry Knobell, the tax fixer, and gambler Frankie Costello.

Undoubtedly Luther got into the operation without knowing what the score was. He was asked by Knobell, before the latter made headlines, to organize an oil company in Kansas for him. And since U. S. attorneys are permitted to handle non-government matters, he did so. Furthermore, he continued to serve as Kansas attorney for the company even after Knobell's name and picture was headline all over the nation as having tried to fix the Friedus Tax case and for having arranged a $5,000 airplane commission for Lamar Caudle.

Last month, and only after the internal revenue collector in New York asked U. S. officials in Kansas to file tax liens against Knobell,

Where the Dawn Comes Up Like Thunder

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington—Though Price Administrator Mike DiSalle has bucked all sorts of discouragement in his battle to hold down prices, he has never lost his unquenchable humor.

The other day he called up handsome, unhumorous Sen. John Bricker of Ohio, Republican, and the following conversation took place:

"Say, I was thinking about running for your job," announced DiSalle. "I just wanted to ask how you like it."

Flabbergasted, Bricker hesitated, finally said:

"I didn't like it very much at first, but I've got so I like it now."

"Maybe I should try to take it away from you," joked DiSalle, and after a few more pleasantries, hung up.

More Tax Situations

Though Howard McGrath has taken his way out of resigning as attorney general, the Justice Department has not moved regarding the unique fact that one of Frankie Costello's companies has hired a U. S. attorney.

The U. S. attorney is Lester Luther of Kansas, who became the resident agent for the Renn Oil Co. of Russell, Kan., owned by Larry Knobell, the tax fixer, and gambler Frankie Costello.

After the battle, British Admiral Palliser announced he was withdrawing all British units immediately.

"But," remonstrated Admiral Helfrich, "your orders were to serve under me."

"My orders," replied the British commander, "are to serve under you until the situation becomes hopeless."

The Justice Department, when queried, said it knew nothing about the matter. It would seem, however, that the Justice Department would not only ask Luther to explain the matter, but also examine all other outside connections of all other U. S. admirals.

Note—Knobell and Costello own several oil leases in and around Rice county, Kansas. Costello's share in the deal nets him about $45,000 a year.

Split Command

One factor influencing the final Churchill-Truman decision against a British naval commander for the Atlantic fleet was some of the split-command experiences in World War II, especially the battle of the Java Sea.

There, Admiral Tommy Hart at first commanded the allied fleet, but was relieved following Dutch protests that while Hart maneuvered, the Japs built up their fleet. Replacing him, a Dutch admiral, Conrad E. L. Helfrich, took command.

Under the Dutchman were Rear Adm. William Glassford, U.S.N., and Rear Adm. Francis Palliser commanding British units, and Rear Adm. Karel Doorman, who commanded at sea.

However, Admiral Doorman, a heroic officer, was not experienced in commanding a large fleet; so when the Exeter, struck in the engine room, was forced out of line, Doorman turned out of line with her. This was the signal for every other ship to turn out of line, after which there was no unity of action.

Dutch, British and U. S. warships scattered, became the prey of bands of Jap destroyers. It was a tragic defeat.

After the battle, British Admiral Palliser announced he was withdrawing all British units immediately.

"But," remonstrated Admiral Helfrich, "your orders were to serve under me."

"My orders," replied the British commander, "are to serve under you until the situation becomes hopeless."

The Justice Department, when queried, said it knew nothing about the matter. It would seem, however, that the Justice Department would not only ask Luther to explain the matter, but also examine all other outside connections of all other U. S. admirals.

SHOKAN

Shokan, Jan. 25—The Sacrament of the Lord's Supper will be administered in the Ashokan, Glenford and West Hurley Churches of the Ashokan Methodist charge Sunday, Jan. 27.

Lemuel E. DuBois, tax collector and former supervisor of Olive, has returned home following a hospital sojourn and is getting along well.

Arthur Bush, 19, who enlisted in the air force last week, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Bush of Brown's and the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Carter of Ashokan. He attended high school in Kingston and has been employed on construction work in this area.

Comes now Prof. Wm. H. Marshall of the University of Minnesota to put a crimp in the arguments of those who would have legalized deer hunting in New York. The professor declares the "any deer" season has worked fine in his state where nearly half of the hunters bag a deer as against only 10 percent in the Empire State. Moreover, the deer herd keeps up in size because there is more grazing, the animals are better nourished, fertility is increased and more twins are born. Sounds reasonable.

Mrs. R. V. DuBois of Forest Glen has been in town this week doing a health survey for Cornell University. Questionnaires used in this survey embrace a pretty thorough checkup on housing, water supply, household gadgets, education and medical care.

January communion services in the Gould Memorial Reformed Church in Roxbury marked the 50th anniversary of the day four sisters, the oldest of whom is now 78, joined the church. They are Mrs. Henry Blythe, Susan Munsell, Mrs. Charles Ruteshouser and Mrs. Everett Hinkley, all of Roxbury. The pastor, the Rev. Henry Luben, in his sermon made mention of the former Cantwell sisters and their influence for good in the community.

Patches of open water in the east basin of the Ashokan grew fewer in number with the advent of Thursday's cold snap. The influence of moving water from feeder brooks and from springs in the floor of the basins probably have a lot to do with the spotty ice field this winter. Temple's Pond, which parallels the east basin and the Onteora Trail has been ice-locked right along, however, with A-1 potential skating on this elongated expanse of water. But alas no skaters! Not a figure to be seen on the whole pond. And it was quite a hike up there from the old villages, too. Gone also from the winter scene are the ice sawyers (who sometimes spoiled the skating) and the lumber-box sleighs, speedily to and from the village houses to the music of jingling bells and the whoops of small boys who "hitched on behind!"

Scenes From Korean Veterans' Picture Album

Financial and Commercial

By RADER WINGET

New York, Jan. 25 (AP)—Stocks made slight progress today in a relatively quiet market.

Most of the gains were fractional with a few leading issues up between 1 and 2 points at times. Losses were generally scattered and fractional.

Some areas were favored with upside activity, but this was neither pronounced nor did it inspire buying in other areas.

Coppers were ahead right from the start, still under the influence of price increases for other non-ferrous metals.

Copper Range with a 2-point rise was well ahead of others after it was announced that the Defense Materials Procurement Administration plans to buy copper at above ceiling prices from a subsidiary of Copper Range.

Oils showed some good gains, although the division was held back by small losses. Cities Service and Ashland Oil were among the better issues.

Standard Brands was active and higher. Directors declared a quarterly dividend of 40 cents as against 30 cents previously paid.

Moreover, the deer herd keeps up in size because there is more grazing, the animals are better nourished, fertility is increased and more twins are born. Sounds reasonable.

Mrs. R. V. DuBois of Forest Glen has been in town this week doing a health survey for Cornell University. Questionnaires used in this survey embrace a pretty thorough checkup on housing, water supply, household gadgets, education and medical care.

January communion services in the Gould Memorial Reformed Church in Roxbury marked the 50th anniversary of the day four sisters, the oldest of whom is now 78, joined the church. They are Mrs. Henry Blythe, Susan Munsell, Mrs. Charles Puteshouser and Mrs. Everett Hinkley, all of Roxbury. The pastor, the Rev. Henry Luben, in his sermon made mention of the former Cantwell sisters and their influence for good in the community.

Patches of open water in the east basin of the Ashokan grew fewer in number with the advent of Thursday's cold snap. The influence of moving water from feeder brooks and from springs in the floor of the basins probably have a lot to do with the spotty ice field this winter. Temple's Pond which parallels the east basin and the Onteora Trail has been ice-locked right along, however, with A-1 potential skating on this elongated expanse of water. But alas, no skaters! Not a figure-8 to be seen on the whole pond. And it was quite a hike up there from the old villages, too. Gone also from the winter scene are the ice sawyers (who sometimes spoiled the skating) and the lumber-box sleighs speeding to and from the village icehouses to the music of jingling bells and the whoops of small boys who "hitched on behind."

Scenes From Korean Veterans' Picture Album

The scenes depicted above and which are included in the album show the uptown, downtown and central sections of the city. Private Ploss' home in Mt. Marion, also his place of employment before he entered the service, Dussel Brothers Mushroom Plant, Mt. Marion. In lower right photo, are members of his family, Mr. and Mrs. John Ploss, his sister, Mrs. Sylvia Haslam and her eldest son, Victor J. Haslam.

Korean Veteran In Hospital Will Receive Album

Private First Class Glenford Ploss of Mt. Marion, who recently was wounded on the Korean battlefield and now is being hospitalized in Japan, will receive the first picture album of local scenes and also members of his family, which is being sent free to Korean veterans who left Kingston by a group of local public-spirited citizens. Private Ploss is a member of Company 1, 21st Infantry.

The albums are being prepared and shipped by the Lipgar Photo Studio of 270 Fair street and there is no charge for the album or the taking of pictures of the family of the veterans. The costs are being met by the sponsors of the project, many of whom have served their country on the far-flung battlefields of the world in former wars. They know what it means to receive a reminder from home and they are happy to undertake this project.

Any family interested in having pictures of a personal nature sent to the veteran, who now is on the fighting front in Korea, should contact the Lipgar Studio and make arrangements to have the pictures taken at their homes or in the studio. There will be no charge made to the family for this work or any other work in connection with the local veterans' picture album.

All the Kingston veterans in the Korean combat zone are to receive pictures of their families in the album, these families must cooperate by contacting the Lipgar Photo Studio.

Where no family picture is arranged for, an album of all local scenes will be mailed so that Kingston will be brought to the local veteran in pictorial form.

The originator of this plan to cheer the young men on the fighting fronts in Korea is the veteran himself and he and the other sponsors who are paying the costs know that the album will be welcomed and appreciated.

Tree Removal Plan Endorsed At Horticulturists' Meeting

Resolutions endorsing the Germantown Plan" for removing abandoned apple trees and a move for stiffer penalties against commission merchants for fraudulent practices were presented to the membership of the New York State Horticultural Society for consideration this afternoon, as the society's annual eastern meeting drew to a close here.

The resolutions were presented at an early afternoon session today by Arthur Kurtz of New Paltz, chairman of the resolutions committee. Adoption by the membership is considered certain.

The "Germantown Plan" resolution recommends that the state legislature enact into law the proposal of a committee of Germantown, Columbia county, growers. Pointing to the increased real estate value from reclaimed land and to the fact that abandoned orchards are breeding places for the apple maggot fly, the committee has asked that the township, the county and the state each share one-third the cost of removing an estimated 2,000 acres of abandoned trees in the Germantown area. Cost has been estimated at $27,000. The proposal asks that the Germantown area be used as a "pilot" to test benefits from coordinated efforts at tree removal.

To Regulate Merchants

Another resolution presented today recommends legislation to regulate the activities of commission merchants more strictly" and to enable state officials to take "more substantial punitive action" against fraudulent practices. The resolution contends that there is "abundant evidence" that fraudulent reports and returns have been made by commission merchants to growers regarding sales of produce, and that the penalties for these fraudulent practices are not sufficiently severe to deter them.

Also included in the list of resolutions was one recommending Cornell University continue and enlarge its studies in the field of market research, and one expressing appreciation to the U. S. Department of Agriculture for its apple purchase program for school lunches, contending that the program has introduced a stability into the apple market situation in the fall and early winter of 1951.

Appreciate Cooperation

The society also passed resolutions of appreciation to the Governor Clinton Hotel, to the superintendent and staff of the state armory here, to the Kingston Chamber of Commerce and the Ulster County Farm Bureau. It also endorsed the 1952 legislative program of the New York State Conference Board of Farm Organizations.

Slave-World of Narcotics

4: Brightest News in Months

By DON WHITEHEAD

Washington, Jan. 25 (AP)—There is rising hope today that a new and tough federal law against narcotics peddling has halted the alarming upsurge in teen-age addiction to drugs.

For more than two years, a growing number of teen-agers have been dragged into the slave-world of narcotics that has trapped some 50,000 addicts in the United States.

But in the past two months, U. S. Narcotics Commissioner H. J. Anslinger reports, there has been a decline in juvenile narcotics addiction. The number of youngsters being treated as addicts also has tapered off.

It's the brightest news that has come out of the battle against the drug habit in many months.

Credit Given to Law

Anslinger gives credit to a new federal law—signed by President Truman last November—increasing the penalties for violation of the narcotics and marijuanna laws.

The new law fixes a minimum prison term of two years and a maximum of five for the first-time violators. It bars suspended sentences for those convicted a second time. It increases prison terms to a possible 20 years for third offenses.

Aslinger has been directing the government's fight against the narcotics traffic for years. He is convinced that tough federal and state laws strictly enforced will do more than anything else to frighten peddlers and drive the dope traffic from the sidewalks of America.

Supported by Judge

Aslinger is supported in these views by Federal Judge Guy L. Fahe of New Jersey who has had long experience in dealing with narcotics addicts.

Judge Fahe has said: "If we could teach the young what a terrible thing it is, it might frighten the life out of anyone who would think for one moment of trying it even on a dare. . . why this narcotics addiction is worse than leprosy, a thousand times worse, and it spreads one to another."

Judge Fahe contends the kindest thing a judge can do for an addict is to sentence him to five years detention—time enough to shake off the craving for the drug and develop a new mental outlook.

And he favors stiff penalties for the peddlers.

Programs Are Conducted

Fortunately, the nation has been alerted to the menace and the size of the narcotics slave-world. Education programs are being conducted in schools and churches and civic centers in some cities to give teen-agers a hint of the dangers in narcotics.

City, state and federal agents are making narcotics peddlers their special targets. The United Nations is trying to get agreement among its members on the control of narcotics manufacture and export. Investigations have spotlighted the situation.

And a young doctor who became an addict said: "Any peddler who would take a child or just a kid and sell him narcotic drugs, particularly some kid who doesn't know the effect of it or what life-time slavery it might lead to—I would say that a man who sells narcotics to that person should have the electric chair."

"It would be better to blow his (the youth's) brains out than to get him started on narcotics. Then he loses his life. If you give him narcotics, he will lose his soul, too."

There is no known cure for narcotics addiction—except a desire within the addict himself to want to be cured and enough willpower to keep away from drugs. But that desire and will isn't strong enough in most cases.

Measles Year in 1952

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 25 (AP)—Outbreaks in scattered areas indicate that 1952 is a "measles year" in the three-year cycle, a state health department spokesman said yesterday. Six counties listed more than 100 cases each: Albany, Broome, Monroe, Montgomery, Nassau and Oneida.

Slave-World of Narcotics

4: Brightest News in Months

By DON WHITEHEAD
Washington, Jan. 25 (AP)—There is rising hope today that a new and tough federal law against narcotics peddling has halted the alarming upsurge in teen-age addiction to drugs.

For more than two years, a growing number of teen-agers have been dragged into the slave-world of narcotics that has trapped some 50,000 addicts in the United States.

But in the past two months, U. S. Narcotics Commissioner H. J. Anslinger reports, there has been a decline in juvenile narcotics addiction. The number of youngsters being treated as addicts also has tapered off.

It's the brightest news that has come out of the battle against the drug habit in many months.

Credit Given to Law

Anslinger gives credit to a new federal law—signed by President Truman last November—increasing the penalties for violation of the narcotics and marijuanna laws.

The new law fixes a minimum prison term of two years and a maximum of five for the first-time violators. It bars suspended sentences for those convicted a second time. It increases prison terms to a possible 20 years for third offenses.

Anslinger has been directing the government's fight against the narcotics traffic for years. He is convinced that tough federal and state laws—strictly enforced—will do more than anything else to frighten peddlers and drive the dope traffic from the sidewalks of America.

Supported by Judge

Anslinger is supported in these views by Federal Judge Guy L. Fahey of New Jersey who has had long experience in dealing with narcotics addicts.

Judge Fahey has said: "If we could teach the young what a terrible thing it is, it might . . . frighten the life out of anyone who would think for one moment of trying it even on a dare. . . . why this narcotics addiction is worse than leprosy, a thousand times worse, and it spreads one to another."

Judge Fahey contends the kindest thing a judge can do for an addict is to sentence him to five years' detention—time enough to shake off the craving for the drug and develop a new mental outlook.

And he favors stiff penalties for the peddlers.

Programs Are Conducted

Fortunately, the nation has been alerted to the menace and the size of the narcotics slave-world. Education programs are being conducted in schools and churches and civic centers in some cities to give teenagers a hint of the dangers in narcotics.

City, state and federal agents are making narcotics peddlers their special targets. The United Nations is trying to get agreement among its members on the control of narcotics manufacture and export. Investigations have spotlighted the situation.

Blue Ribbons Awarded 4-H Pie Baking Winners

Blue ribbons, certificates and other prizes were awarded to the winners in the pie baking contest held yesterday for 4-H Club members of Eastern New York during the morning session of the New York State Horticultural Society's meeting at the armory. The awards were made for apple, cherry and currant pies.

There were 22 entries representing 4-H Clubs in the eastern counties of New York state. Each county was permitted to send one entrant for each group. Those participating included 10 apple pie contestants, nine cherry, and three currant. The entrants furnished their own materials but followed specifications outlined by Cornell University Extension service. The ages of the contestants ranged from 11 to 19 years. The youngest, a resident of Ulster county, Miss Karen Trowbridge of Kiserike, member of the Cedar Ridge 4-H Club, was the runner-up in the currant pie group. Others from the county included Mary Ann Bowman of High Falls, also a Cedar Ridge member, in the apple pie group and Shirley Pratt of Kiserike in the cherry pie contest.

The pies were judged for appearance, color, tenderness, texture and flavor of the crust and filling.

Blue ribbons, certificates and other prizes were awarded to the winners in the pie baking contest held yesterday for 4-H Club members of Eastern New York during the morning session of the New York State Horticultural Society's meeting at the armory. The awards were made for apple, cherry and currant pies.

There were 22 entries representing 4-H Clubs in the eastern counties of New York state. Each county was permitted to send one entrant for each group. Those participating included 10 apple pie contestants, nine cherry, and three currant. The entrants furnished their own materials but followed specifications outlined by Cornell University Extension service. The ages of the contestants ranged from 11 to 19 years. The youngest, a resident of Ulster county, Miss Karen Trowbridge of Kysersie, member of the Cedar Ridge 4-H Club, was the runner-up in the currant pie group. Others from the county included Mary Ann Bowman of High Falls, also a Cedar Ridge member, in the apple pie group and Shirley Pratt of Kysersie in the cherry pie contest.

The pies were judged for appearance, color, tenderness, texture and flavor of the crust and filling.

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it wrong to call a young woman "Miss Ruth" instead of the formal "Miss Jones?"

Answer: In dressmaking establishents and beauty parlors, saleswomen often are called "Miss Ruth." Socially, "Miss Ruth" is used in the South as a more friendly and affectionate name than Miss Jones, even after she is married. Elsewhere, "Miss Ruth" seldom is used except by those in domestic service for the unmarried daughters of their employers.

Concerning "Miss Ruth"

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it wrong to have some visiting cards made up and am not quite sure how my name should appear on them. I am a widow with a daughter-in-law by the same name. Should I add Sr. to my name, or is my daughter-in-law Mrs. John Jones, Jr.?

Answer: Yours is the one situation, which for the sake of clarity, requires that you add Sr. to your name. Your daughter-in-law is Mrs. John Jones without any suffix.

CANCELED ENGAGEMENT

The severity of a storm is the crux of this letter: "Last week my husband and I were invited out to dinner at the house of a friend who lives on the other side of town. That particular evening the weather was very stormy and the roads quite dangerous because of ice. I telephoned my friend and said we would not be able to come because the weather was too bad, and apologized. I understand she was very much put out about this and thinks we should have kept the appointment fair weather or foul. Was I wrong to cancel this dinner engagement or should we have gone even at the risk of having an accident?"

It depends entirely upon how great was the risk. If the streets were really all ice and you could hardly have got there without an accident, then I think you were right, and your hostess should have understood. But the storm would have had to be really bad to excuse your staying away.

Washington School To Open Monday

On Monday morning pupils who formerly attended Public School No. 8 and all those students residing on either side of Main street or south of Main street who formerly attended No. 7 school, will enter the new Washington school on Wall street and Washington avenue when the new school will open.

The Washington school will accommodate students from kindergarten through the sixth grades.

Built at a cost of approximately $1,400,000, the Washington school is the first of the units to be built under a "long range" planning program launched some years ago which is designed to ultimately give the city of Kingston modern school buildings to replace some of our present structures which have been in use for nearly a century.

Modern Equipment

The Washington school provides the most modern equipment in the education field in a building designed along present day demands. There are three kindergarten rooms in the school in a separate department from the grade rooms. There are 21 class rooms with all facilities including gym facilities for both boys and girls, an auditorium and included in the school is a new departure from our old system. There will be quarters in the school for a resident janitor who will be present at all times in the building when any activity is going on.

While the Washington school building is the first of the grade schools planned several years ago by the board of education to make the school system really modern, it is not the first step in the "long range planning" program. The first unit was the addition to the Vocational School which is now in use. Next on the program is the "field house" on the high school grounds which was planned to give better physical education facilities and at the same time permit better cafeteria space in the high school building.

Downtown Building

Under the "long range" plan it is proposed to erect additional school buildings in the downtown section of the city to replace outmoded structures now in use and to also provide ultimately, grade and junior high school buildings in the Twelfth Ward area and also in the rapidly developing section of the Second Ward on the Loughran Park site which the board of education purchased several years ago as a site for a school building. The downtown school site has tentatively been designed as a portion of Hasbrouck Park off Delaware avenue.

Although work is not entirely completed at the Washington school the building is ready to receive pupils and the balance of the work of a minor nature will be completed shortly. When the building is completed and fully equipped there will be an "open house" for public inspection of the building.

Truckers Get 10 Days to Pay Taxes

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 25 (AP)—The State Tax Commission today gave trucks 10 days to pay under the state's new weight-distance tax on big trucks.

The tax was held constitutional yesterday by Justice Harry E. Schinck of the State Supreme Court.

The Empire State Truck Operators and Allied Industries Committee plans to appeal Schinck's decision. It claims the tax law is discriminatory and unconstitutional.

Acting promptly to collect the tax, which took effect last Oct. 1 but had been stayed during the court action, the commission said truckers who had filed returns since then would be granted 10 days in which to pay the tax, without penalty or interest.

Truman's Word

operator declined to comment on Mr. Truman's remarks.

Kem Silent

It is Kem's seat which is at stake in this year's election. He has not announced yet whether he will bid for another six-year term.

Several months ago, when there also was talk Mr. Truman might run for the Senate, Kem asked him about it in a joking sort of way and got a non-committal reply. It happened when the President visited the Senate one day.

Three Democratic leaders predicted yesterday that despite Mr. Truman's remarks the midwestern Democratic conference opening in Kansas City today would approve unanimously a resolution urging him to seek another term. They were conference chairman James C. Quigley of Nebraska, Secretary Jake More of Iowa and Carl V. Rice, Kansas Democratic national committee man.

Mum on Kefauver

Mr. Truman declined comment at his news conference on what he thinks of the entrance of Senator Estes Kefauver of Tennessee into the campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Kefauver, said the President, is a nice fellow. He went on to say that he considers the Tennessean a good senator.

Reporters wanted to know whether Mr. Truman would like to see Kefauver remain in the Senate. To that, the President replied that he likes to see good men in the Senate.

As they did elsewhere, the President's news conference remarks left most midwestern Democrats up in the air.

Strong Possibility

One congressional source familiar with Missouri politics told a reporter he is convinced there is a very real possibility Mr. Truman might go into the Senate race.

This source, who asked not to be named, said the idea "is not one to be brushed off lightly—it's in the picture all right."

But Senator Anderson (D-N.M.), a close friend of the President, said he still believes Mr. Truman will run for the presidency again.

Senator Sparkman (D-Ala.) exclaimed "Oh, go!" when he got the news of the Missouri-Senate aspect of the situation. Then he scratched his head and said:

"He sure plays an interesting game of it, doesn't he? My own personal view is that he is not going to run for anything, but he is having a lot of fun out of it."

Kindness Says Aiken

Senator Aiken (R-Vt.) put it this way:

"I think he's kidding about the Senate. He's not going to give up his present job willingly."

At his news conference, Mr. Truman said he had not offered Gov. Adlai Stevenson the Democratic presidential nomination in a talk with the governor at the Blair House Tuesday night. There have been reports the President, if he decided against running himself, would back Stevenson for the nomination.

Mr. Truman also was asked whether he shared the opinion of John Nangle, Democratic national committee man from Missouri, that he has worked hard to serve the country and is entitled to a rest.

No Tired His Answer

The President replied, with a trace of irritation in his voice, that he is not tired.

Nangle's remarks about Mr. Truman being entitled to a rest were made in Missouri last week. Two days ago Nangle visited the White House and afterward he had no doubt Mr. Truman would run for another term.

Pick Practical Fibers

By GAILE DUGAS, NEA Woman's Editor

New York—(NEA)—The fashions that can, through 1952, go into a traveler's luggage and come out looking crisp and fresh are likely to be in one of the new and highly practical man-made fibers.

The fashion possibilities inherent in these fibers are tremendous. It means something for everyone: coats in lightweight fleece and herringbone, davytex and satin negligees, pleated winter-weight jerseys, functional shantung suits and dresses, bridal satins with a gleaming luster.

Daytime dress (left) is designed by Heribert Sontheim in an all-oriion pongee. It has the appearance of a fine silk pongee and is, its makers claim, both washable and wrinkle-resistant. A simple but elegant shirtdress, dress, it has natural shoulders, cuffed, bracelet-length sleeves and a tailored collar. Skirt is narrow.

Sports separates (right) are in basket weave orion-and-wool.

This is a wooly-type fabric that is washable and crush-resistant. Skirt pleats are permanent and remain sharp through laundering and packing.

the new living cost increases. Some basic foods such as fresh fruits and vegetables, and dairy products, are always higher in the winter season.

Meanwhile, the Bureau of Labor statistics said average weekly earnings for factory workers rose to $67.36 in December, up $1.55 from November, primarily because of a longer workweek.

Average weekly earnings were up $3.48, or more than 5 per cent, over December 1950.

recommendations as to which of the alternative actions the sub-delegates should pursue," Turner said. "We submit this course of action in a sincere desire to make progress in these negotiations and bring them to a successful conclusion in a minimum amount of time."

If the Communists accept one of the proposed course of action, staff officers would face some tough problems. They include:

1. Limits to be placed on rotation of troops and replacement of equipment and material.

2. Definition of ports of entry to be inspected.

3. Actual ports of entry to be checked by neutral inspection teams.

4. Personnel and operation of the Armistice Commission.

5. Composition of inspection teams.

6. Relationship of the Armistice Commission to the inspection teams.

7. Details of withdrawing troops from the buffer zone and from offshore islands.

Emergency From Session

Rear Adm. R. E. Libby emerged from a stormy two hours and 40 minute session of the prisoner exchange subcommittee to tell newsmen: "We caught hell."

There was no progress, but Nuckles said "at least the Communists began today to talk about specifics rather than broad generalities."

Specifically, North Korean Maj. Gen. Lee Sang Cho asked the UN to return 37,000 Koreans originally listed as prisoners of war, but later reclassified as South Korean civilians.

Nuckles said Lee also served notice that the Reds would hold all South Koreans now in the Communist armies and demanded the return of all prisoners held by the allies.

Lee contended there is no such thing as a Republic of Korea.

Libby told newsmen: "It is obvious they are going to claim we have no legal basis for reclassifying any of those 37,000."

"We caught hell for not giving them the data they asked for about prisoners. We still owe them clarification on the original list of 132,000 we gave them, such as unit designation and rank were available and some other information."

Both subcommittees agreed to meet again at 11 a. m. Saturday (9 p. m. EST Friday) in Panmunjom.

Church Official

gation seeking to protest against the Vatican appointment.

Reporters asked Mr. Truman about published reports that he might appoint a personal representative rather than an ambassador and avoid possible Senate rejection of his nominee.

Mr. Truman replied with a vigorous no. He said he would stick to his plan to name an ambassador and that the Senate would have to assume its responsibility on voting on his choice.

Mr. Truman nominated Gen. Mark W. Clark Vatican ambassador just at the close of Congress last fall and no action was taken.

An avalanche of criticism was launched by Protestant groups and the President complied with Clark's request that his name be withdrawn.

The clergy and laymen participating in the "pilgrimage" circulated around the Capitol urging individual Congressmen to support their stand.

Dr. Harvey Springer, pastor of the First Baptist Church in Englewood, Colo., said the council had handed to Chairman Connally (D-Tex.) of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee protest petitions bearing 50,000 names. HSe said "we got thousands more" names.

Kingston High continues its relentless pursuit of undefeated Newburgh Academy tonight when it ventures into the troublesome den of Ellenville High, but the suspicion mounts that nobody is going to give the Maroons a helping hand.

William McMillan, a prize Negro prospect who landed in the New York Giant chain, was the batting leader percentagewise with .377 and led the circuit with 42 stolen bases. McMillan hit seven homers and knocked in 68 runs; Jones batted a misleading .307.

Willie Casanova, who is due for promotion in the Yankee chain, batted .354, drew 103 walks, hit five homers and had 87 RBIs.

Manager John Sosh, who joined the Kingston Colonials late in the season and appeared in 44 games, is the first local name in the batting averages with .294. Next comes Scotty Tortoriello with .273 in 41 games. The rest of the Kingston averages make pretty sad reading.

Amsterdam's Casanova also scored the most runs, 121; made the most hits, 155 and the most doubles, 32. Artie Getgen, Oneonta, and Dick Zack of Pittsfield tied for the triple leadership with 11; Bob Guttila, the fiery Oneonta infielder, led in sacrifice hits with 18. Luis Palmisano, the bespectacled Pittsfield centerfielder, coaxed the most walks, 109, and Arnie Spence of Oneonta was tagged with most pitched balls, 13. The dubious distinction of leading the league in strikeouts went to Bernie Vogt, Gloversville catcher, with 89.

The Liberty Redskins, normally a rugged home club, threw up a zone defense and other shenanigans against Coach Lankay Masterson's powerhouse last night and the results were exactly the opposite of what the Redskins had hoped. NFA reeled off its ninth straight win without a setback, 49 to 31.

Middleton Lone Hope

Only Middletown remains as a Kingston hope and it may well be a case of robbing Peter to pay Paul. If the Middies knock off the Goldbacks in their next outing in Middletown, who says they can't do the same to Kingston in the final game on the schedule.

Thus, Coach G. Warren Kias is down to the old cash and carry system of winning tonight's game and letting tomorrow take care of itself. That sort of philosophy has won baseball pennants for Leo Durocher. It might do the trick for KHS—if somebody just beats Newburgh, just once.

Ellies Dangerous

There is nothing but trouble ahead for the Kiasmen tonight in Ellenville. Nobody appreciates the magnitude of the Maroon task any more than G. Warren A. hot and cold ball club, with a brilliant scorer in Jerry Laks and several other capable operators in Drake, Geishardt and Edelman. The Ellies were pre-season favorites with NFA. They started brilliantly, collapsed inexplicably, and then rallied with great scoring power. Newburgh Academy humiliated them on their own boards. Kingston is apt to find them rebounding.

Richie Spreer and Mickey "The Marvel" Burkowski accounted for 30 of the NFA points last night against Liberty. Big Wayne Mauer, last year's All-DUSO center, paced the mountaineers with 15 points.

High School Five at Ellenville; Newburgh Wins Ninth Straight

Kingston High continues its relentless pursuit of undefeated Newburgh Academy tonight when it ventures into the troublesome den of Ellenville High, but the suspicion mounts that nobody is going to give the Maroons helping hand.

If the NFA juggernaut is to be headed off and forced into at least a playoff for the 1951-52 pennant, some team has to step forward with the big kill.

The Liberty Redskins, normally a rugged home club, threw up a zone defense and other shenanigans against Coach Lank Masterson's powerhouse last night and the results were exactly the opposite of what the Redskins had hoped. NFA reeled off its ninth straight win without a setback, 49 to 31.

Middies Lone Hope

Only Middletown remains as a Kingston hope and it may well be a case of robbing Peter to pay Paul. If the Middies knock off the Goldbacks in their next outing in Middletown, who says they can't do the same to Kingston in the final game on the schedule.

Thus, Coach G. Warren Kias is down to the old cash and carry system of winning tonight's game and letting tomorrow take care of itself. That sort of philosophy has won baseball pennants for Leo Durocher. It might do the trick for KHS—if somebody just beats Newburgh, just once.

Ellies Dangerous

There is nothing but trouble ahead for the Kiasmen tonight in Ellenville. Nobody appreciates the magnitude of the Maroon task any more than G. Warren. A hot and cold ball club, with a brilliant scorer in Jerry Laks and several other capable operators in Drake, Geishardt and Edelman, the Ellies were pre-season favorites with NFA. They started brilliantly, collapsed inexplicably, and then rallied with great scoring power. Newburgh Academy humiliated them on their own boards. Kingston is apt to find them rebounding.

Ricbie Spreer and Mickey "The Marvel" Burkowski accounted for 30 of the NFA points last night against Liberty. Big Wayne Mauer, last year's All-DUSO center, put the mountaineers with 11 points.

Rolls Against Ferraro and Schatzel

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Freeman Sports Editor

Johnny Jones, the stocky Amsterdam Rugmaker first baseman who might some day wind up at Yankee Stadium, emerges as the Canadian-American League's power batter in the official 1951 averages.

The young man who is built along the lines of Lou Gehrig in his youth went to bat most times, 476; hit for the most total bases, 231; pounded out the most homers, 18; batted in the most runs, 178. In addition, he was a thoroughly competent performer around the getaway sack.

William Casanova, who is due for promotion in the Yankee chain, batted .354, drew 103 walks, hit five homers and had 87 RBIs.

Manager John Sosh, who joined the Kingston Colonials late in the season and appeared in 44 games, is the first local name in the batting averages with .294. Next comes Scotty Tortorillo with .271 in 41 games. The rest of the Kingston averages make pretty sad reading.

Amsterdam's Casanova also scored the most runs, 121; made the most hits, 155 and the most doubles, 32. Artie Getgen, Oneonta, and Dick Zack of Pittsfield tied for the triple leadership with 11; Bob Guttilla, the fiery Oneonta infielder, led in sacrifice hits with 18. Louis Palmisano, the bespectacled Pittsfield centerfielder, coaxed the most walks, 109, and Arnie Spence of Oneonta was tagged with most pitched balls, 13. The dubious distinction of leading the league in strikeouts went to Bernie Vogt, Gloversville catcher, with 89.

The powerful Rugmakers of Amsterdam dominated the team statistics. They led with a team mark of .279; most times at bat, 4154; most runs, 827; allowed most runs, 778; made the most hits, 1159; hit for most total bases, 1604; most doubles, 179; most walks, 755 and most RBIs, 709.

The championship Oneonta team bagged a few of the statistical titles, restricting the opposition to fewest runs, 509; a tribute to the Can-Am's best pitching staff; hit most triples, 54; stole most bases, 135; had most batsmen hit, 37; and struck out the fewest times, 431.

Buck Etchison's Rome Colonels led the league with 60 homers and tied Pittsfield for most strikeouts, 586.

Mention was made yesterday of the tremendous turnover of manpower in the Can-Am. It now develops that 45 players, instead of 30, appeared on the Kingston roster at one time or another.

Just to refresh your memory the Kingston roster, from the start of the season until the final payout, went something like this:

Henry Camelli (mgr.), Ken DuCharme, Charlie Gobio, of Middlestown; Robert Kunze, Daniel McCabe, Luigi Negron, Edward Pagan, Danny Perlmutter, Acroyd Smith, George Sweeney, Walter "Jumbo" Sullivan, Alford Thomas and Pete Zollo.

Then there were John Sosh (mgr.), Scotty Tortorillo, Walter Bremer, Johnny DiFresco, Gene Zubrinski, Joe Niro, Dave Ocarri, Joe Kern (mgr.), Richard Hesley, Joe Stelman, Al Greene, Tom Luce, Bob Wenning, Sam Piacentino, Art "Red" Klinger, Carl Harris, Jack Allen, Vince Canape, Charlie Ayers, Tony Gomez, Bill O'Brien, Also, Bob Oliner, Ismael Alvarado, Jack Bickett, Charlie Borden, Jack Orriston, Charlie Aspromonte, Duke Groce, Tony Piacente, Dick Connor, Frank Seeley, and Rick Ostrander. That's a pretty imposing list in which quantity definitely overwhelmed quality.

Manager Owen Scheetz's Oneonta Red Sox swept both halves of the pennant race with a 37-17 record in the first half and 46-16 in the second round. The Colonials were last with 11-47 in the disastrous first half and fifth with 22-37 under Johnny Sosh's able leadership in the stretch.

The team statistics:

First Half Second Half Close Season
Club W L Pet. W L Pet. W L Pet.
Oneonta 37 17 685 46 17 730 83 34 .709
Pittsfield 37 18 673 33 24 593 72 42 .632
Amsterdam 32 24 571 30 32 484 62 56 .525

Rome 25 33 431 21 38 336 46 71 .393
Kingston 11 47 190 22 37 373* 33 84 .382

*Fifth place for second half.

TIES—Amsterdam 2, Gloversville-Johnstown 1, Rome 1.

PLAYOFFS—Oneonta defeated Amsterdam, 3 games to 1; Gloversville-Johnstown defeated Pittsfield, 3 games to 2; FINAL—Oneonta defeated Gloversville-Johnstown, 3 games to 1.

The handsome Irishman above is Junie McMahon, of Fairlawn, N. J., two-time national match game bowling champion who will tangle with Kingston's two top stars, Johnny Ferraro and Rose Schatzel, in a March of Dimes exhibition tonight at 9 o'clock at the Bowldrome. McMahon, who copped his second all-star crown in December, will roll a three-game set against Ferraro and two games with Mrs. Schatzel. On alleys 7 and 8, naturally. (Freeman Photo)

Blaik's Signing Hints New Army Grid Policy

Irving Hints Over-Emphasis Is Out

West Point, N. Y., Jan. 25 (AP)—Col. Earl (Red) Blaik will remain in command of Army's gridiron forces but don't look for any miracles when the cadets take to the football field this fall.

Speculation whether Blaik would be back this fall ended yesterday with an announcement by Major General Frederick A. Irving, superintendent of the United States Military Academy.

Gen. Irving said Blaik would remain as both football coach and athletic director positions he has held since coming to the Point from Dartmouth in 1941.

And Blaik added after talking with Gen. Irving:

"I intend to remain at the military academy as long as I can be of service."

Off-printed reports had Blaik, crushed by the honor code scandal that cost him most of his 1951 football team, including his son, Bob, contemplating leaving for another football post or a position in the business world.

The veteran coach, whose Army teams have won 77 games, lost 18 and tied six in 11 years, was quick to point out, however, that his decision to remain at the Academy doesn't mean that Army's football fortunes will improve immediately.

Satisfied With 1951

"In fact," Blaik said, "I'll be happy if we do as well this fall as we did last year." Army defeated only Columbia and the Citadel of its nine 1951 opponents and was whipped by Navy, 42-7.

Blaik pointed out next fall's team will be much the same as last year, except for some half-dozen players who will graduate.

"I don't know if we'll be permitted to use plebes," he added "and if we are, there still are very few who can carry the heavy class work required and still play varsity ball their first year here."

Gen. Irving said he considers athletics an integral part of training, but there will be no overemphasis at West Point.

"Col. Blaik fully supports the athletic policy of the military academy," the statement said, adding:

"The policy, as in the past, will require all intercollegiate participants to abide by the same regulations, to take the same courses, to measure up to the same standards and to have the same obligations as those who do not compete in varsity athletics."

"We shall endeavor to encourage young men, athletes and non-athletes, who have the qualifications to become career officers, to compete for entry to the military academy."

Gen. Irving said special privileges are not accorded to athletes at West Point.

The Royals bowed to the Pistons, 94-90, at Fort Wayne last night to absorb their seventh defeat in the last eight starts away from home. It was Fort Wayne's ninth victory in its last ten games on their own court.

The setback dropped Rochester into a first place tie with the idle Minneapolis Lakers, while the Pistons advanced to within three games of the third place Indianapolis Olympians.

Fort Wayne entered the final period with a 13-point lead, but the Royals, paced by Bob Davies, closed the gap to two points before the Pistons could regain their composure and pull safely ahead.

Rochester committed 42 personal fouls to equal the Fort Wayne gym record for infractions called against an individual team.

The Royals' Arnie Risen captured scoring honors with 26 points. Freddie Schaus spearheaded the Fort Wayne attack with 23 points.

New Board Planned For Campus School At Paltz College

Formation of a planning and administrative board which will function in many ways as a local board of education affects an immediate change in the administration of the Campus Elementary School, State University, Teachers College at New Paltz.

In making the announcement, Dr. William J. Haggerty, president of the college, stated, "Organization of the board in no way implies basic or immediate changes in the program or functions of the Campus Elementary School, or any fundamental change in the relationship of the Campus School faculty to the college as a whole."

The board will be composed of the president of the college and four to six persons appointed by him. Present members of the board as it commences to function are Dr. William J. Haggerty, Dr. George W. Angell, Mrs. Ruth Smiley, Dr. Dorothy T. Hayes, and Dr. Jack C. Cotton.

Powers and Duties

Powers and duties of the board will include:

The nomination of a person for principal in case of a vacancy in that position.

The making of recommendations concerning appointments, tenure, and promotions in the staff of the Campus School to the president of the college, these to be based upon recommendations of the principal.

Determination of over-all educational and administrative policies for the Campus School.

Determination, upon recommendation of the principal, of internal budget allocations for the Campus School within the total school budget.

Facilitation of a close working relationship of the administration and faculty of the Campus School with the parents' organization and the local board of education of the New Paltz Central School District.

Concluding the announcement, Dr. Haggerty pointed out that formation of the board has resulted from a need to simplify the overall administration of the Campus School as well as the need for some agency to function in place of the customary board of education.

The scene is the Phoenix Country Club, 6578 yards long, par 36-35-71.

Seventeen pros broke par in the initial 18 holes and 12 more equalized regulation figures.

Boros toured the course in 33-33-66. Middlecoff did it in 34-34-68, and Mangrum carded 35-33-68.

Two comparative youngsters, Bob Toski from Northampton, Mass., with 35-34-69, and Fred Hawkins of El Paso, with 35-34-69, remained in close contention.

Thruway Advertising Hearing Is Sought

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 25 (UPI)—Curbing billboards and advertising along the state Thruway will affect the livelihood of 60,000 persons in the advertising field, several State Federation of Labor unions say.

Governor Dewey has recommended legislation to regulate and restrict Thruway displays.

The unions announced yesterday they would oppose controls "until a sound agreement can be made which will not endanger the fate of workers in this (advertising) industry."

The unions asked a public hearing on the proposal, sponsored by Senator Thomas C. Desmond of Newburgh and Assemblywoman Janet Hill Gordon of Norwich, both Republicans.

The unions opposing the measure, the AFL, said, represented painters, sheet metal workers, carpenters, electrical workers, printers, stage employees, bill posters, artists, cement workers, the theatrical professions and la-borers.

Will Travel by Air

Washington, Jan. 25 (AP)—American diplomats going abroad will be doing most of their traveling by air rather than by ship from now on. Under the new program, State Department officials said, it will be up to the traveler to convince his superiors he has a good reason for not flying. Family dependents, however, may go by ship. The rule is aimed at saving the government time and money, particularly in the daily traveling allowances.

Tallulah's Ex-Maid Is Grateful

Formation of a planning and administrative board will function in many ways as a local board of education affects an immediate change in the administration of the Campus Elementary School, State University, Teachers College at New Paltz.

In making the announcement, Dr. William J. Haggerty, president of the college, stated, "Organization of the board in no way implies basic or immediate changes in the program or functions of the Campus Elementary School, or any fundamental change in the relationship of the Campus School faculty to the college as a whole."

The board will be composed of the president of the college and four to six persons appointed by him. Present members of the board as it commences to function are Dr. William J. Haggerty, Dr. George W. Angell, Mrs. Ruth Smiley, Dr. Dorothy T. Hayes, and Dr. Jack C. Cotten.

Powers and Duties

Powers and duties of the board will include:

The nomination of a person for principal in case of a vacancy in that position.

The making of recommendations concerning appointments, tenure, and promotions in the staff of the Campus School to the president of the college, these to be based upon recommendations of the principal.

Determination of over-all educational and administrative policies for the Campus School.

Determination, upon recommendations of the principal, of internal budget allocations for the Campus School within the total school budget.

Facilitation of a close working relationship of the administration and faculty of the Campus School with the parents' organization and the local board of education of the New Paltz Central School District.

Concluding the announcement, Dr. Haggerty pointed out that formation of the board has resulted from a need to simplify the overall administration of the Campus School as well as the need for some agency to function in place of the customary board of education.

Thruway Advertising Hearing Is Sought

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 25 (P)—Curbing billboards and advertising along the state Thruway will affect the livelihood of 60,000 persons in the advertising field, several State Federation of Labor unions say.

Governor Dewey has recommended legislation to regulate and restrict Thruway displays.

The unions announced yesterday they would oppose controls "until a sound agreement can be made which will not endanger the jobs of workers in this (advertising) industry."

The unions asked a public hearing on the proposal, sponsored by Senator Thomas C. Desmond of Newburgh and Assemblywoman Janet Hill Gordon of Newburgh.

The unions oppose the measure, the AFL said, represented painters, sheet metal workers, carpenters, electrical workers, printers, stage employees, bill posters, artists, cement workers, the theatrical professions and laborers.

WOODSTOCK NEWS

By RICHARD B. THIBAUT, JR.

'Whispering' John Is 70, Came for Visit, Stayed

Woodstock, Jan. 25—Almost any day of the year he is a familiar figure in the vicinity of the village green, except for three weeks in the spring and then he is to be found exclusively on a boat somewhere on the Ashokan Reservoir. When John Helferich, who is best known to his Woodstock cronies as "Whispering" John, takes off on his annual fishing expedition, his absence is complete and of solid, if not distant duration.

John Helferich, who celebrated his 70th birthday January 24, is one of Woodstock's oldest volunteer firemen. When he receives his exempt papers, which are now in the process of coming through, it will make him three times an exempt fireman. He also served as a member of the Old Hickory Engine Company of West New York, N. J., and in the Overlook Engine Company of North Bergen, N. J., before coming to Woodstock.

Figures by Fires

He isn't exactly sure just what year it was when he came to Woodstock and since most of the events of his life are recorded in relation to memorable fires, he was able to establish the date sometime shortly after 1930, right after the hotel, where the Longyear building now stands, burned.

When he joined the Woodstock Fire Company No. 1, Albert Cash-dollar was both town supervisor and fire chief. The fire house was then located in a two-story building where the tower for the present fire siren, at the rear of the Town Hall, now stands. Helferich was second assistant chief, and the pride and joy of this company was the old Ford engine with a chain drive shaft, and the old Sanford engine which is still in use by the present company.

Visit Impressed Him

While working for the New York Central Railroad, on the West Shore branch, many years ago, Helferich first became acquainted with the Catskill area, and was a visitor in the vicinity before the first World War. When he finally came to Woodstock for a two weeks' visit, he simply stayed on permanently. Since that time he has lived in Woodland Valley for a time with the Warren Gravers; he worked for a stretch in Mink Hollow on a ski trail and logging project, above the present ranch. For a number of years he was associated with George Haythorne in the moving business, and he is now employed at the Woodstock Dairies.

Somewhere along the line, according to his associates, Helferich worked in a boiler factory. How He Got Name

"That's how he got the name 'Whispering John,' one of them claims. 'He had to whisper out loud to be heard, and he's been whispering in those melodious tones ever since.'

Mr. Roger Graizer gave a surprise stork shower at her home, Saturday, Jan. 19, in honor of Mrs. Bert C. Winnie, Jr. Mrs. Winnie was presented with a bassinet and many other baby gifts. The guests who attended were Mrs. William Russell, Mrs. George Leonard, Jr., Mrs. Richard E. Bark, Mrs. Bert C. Winnie, Sr., Mrs. Henry Graizer, Mrs. George Leonard, Sr., Mrs. Everett Cash-dollar, Mrs. Donald Moyer, Mrs. Joseph Holdridge, Jr., Mrs. Robert Rifenberg, Mrs. Eleanor Bartlett, Mrs. Charles Bailey, Mrs. Nelson Shultz, Mrs. James A. Shultz, Mrs. William Spanake, Jr., Mrs. Eugene Shultz, Mrs. Mabel Buley, Mrs. Henry Schuster, Mrs. David Van de Bogart, Mrs. Aaron Van de Bogart, Jr., and Mrs. Della Risley. Those unable to attend were Mrs. Joseph Forno, Mrs. Lloyd Van Etten, Mrs. Carl Gardner and Mrs. Stanley Shultz.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Hefty entertained at a party in honor of the birthdays of their daughter, Carol Anne, aged 9, and Mrs. Adolph Heckereth. Among the guests were Adolph Heckereth, Edith and Billy Heckereth, Al Wetterau, A. Gurich and Mrs. K. Hefty, Sr., and Walter Houst of Mt. Vernon.

Although he has worked at a variety of trades in and around the village, Helferich was never engaged in one of the area's most famous industries, that of quarrying, but he has done stone cutting and can lay it. And although it's the deep waters of the Ashokan Reservoir that hold the greatest fascination for his fisherman's heart, it was Woodstock's own Tannery Brook which yielded his biggest catch, a six pound five ounce trout. No doubt the big fish was just serving as bait for the Woodstock Fire Company to insure Helferich's being in the vicinity should the fire siren go off.

No Service Sunday
Woodstock, Jan. 25—There will be no service in the Lutheran Church, Sunday, Jan. 27. Sunday school, however, will convene as usual. The Rev. Olney E. Cook, pastor of the church, and Mrs. Cook, will visit friends in New York for several days.

Helped Dimes Fund

Woodstock, Jan. 25—Playing a benefit game for the March of Dimes Fund, the Woodstock Valley basketball team beat Hudson 68 to 53, Tuesday night on the Woodstock court. A fair number of hardy fans braved the snow and rain and brought a total of $88 to the March of Dimes fund. Klein was high scorer for Woodstock.

NOTE: Will go to Willow with through passengers on Friday, Saturday and Sunday. Trips connect with buses and trains from New York City. Connecting carriers: Central Greyhound Lines, Aurora Transit Lines, Mountain View Coach Lines and West Shore Railroad.

Will also run February 21

River Rescue

Firemen and bystanders drag a 13-year-old boy, Jim Rossetto (back to camera) to safety on the Los Angeles River, Jan. 23, after he and another boy were stranded on a rock shelf at the river center. The boys, along with three others, were walking across the nearly-dry river bed when a torrent of water, released from an upstream dam, trapped them 40 feet from shore. Firemen used lines to bring the boys through the seven-foot-deep current. One fireman clutched the Rossetto boy as they were pulled across, sometimes under water, sometimes over. (AP Wirephoto).
